Cocking and Pittman Ousted by Board of Regents In 10-5 Election After Replacement of Miller Bell; Majority Resolution Praises Talmadge for Stand

Extended Term For Draftees Asked by F.D.R.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Congressional leaders decided at a conference with President Roosevelt today to press for immediate enactment of legislation to hold selectees, National Guardsmen and reservists in service for more than one year.

(President Roosevelt strongly supported War Department proposals that these soldiers be kept in service longer than a year, the United Press said.)

The decision was made despite some earlier doubts in administration quarters on Capitol Hill that congress would be willing to take the step.

"Will React Favorably."

After the White House conference, however, Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, majority leader, predicted to reporters that when congress "gets the facts and realizes its responsibility it will react favorably." Speaker Rayburn, Democrat, Texas, of the house, had said last week he doubted the proposal could win approval from congress at present.

Chairman Reynolds, Democrat, North Carolina, announced that the Senate Military Committee would hold hearings on the legislation starting Thursday. He added, however, that he was still opposed to the bill as an individual member.

Argument Submitted.

Argument in support of the legislation were submitted to the President's congressional lieutenants by General George C. Marshall, chief of staff, who has recommended that all men now in the Army be kept in service beyond their scheduled periods of duty.

Barkley said he was convinced that the action was needed to prevent the Army from "disintegrating because of the withdrawal of large numbers of trained soldiers."

The majority leader said there were three possible approaches that might be made to the question of keeping the troops in service, any one of which might be chosen.

Congress might, he explained, amend the act directly to provide for keeping the men in service; it could declare a state of national emergency which would permit keeping the troops on duty, or the law could be amended to put the selectees on the same basis as reserve officers, so that they could be called for active duty after their regular training period had ended.

Cloudy, Showers Weather Menu

Considerable cloudiness today with thundershowers this afternoon is the weather forecast for Atlanta and vicinity, the United States weather bureau announced.

Temperature extremes of 70 to 88 degrees may be expected, as compared with extremes of 71 and 86 yesterday, it was said.

WREATH FOR WATERY GRAVE—Somewhere in the Pacific, between Honolulu and Canton Island, a wreath will be dropped in memory of Amelia Earhart, who disappeared in 1937 in that area with Fred Noonan. This picture, made yesterday in Los Angeles, shows TWA airline hostess, Rhonda Young, handing the wreath to Captain R. J. Nixon, of the California Clipper. The memory token was sent by the Women Fliers of America.

German Quickly Has Become Official Soviet Dead Language

Once Moscow Menus Were Printed in Rhineland Tongue; English Now Popular; Nazis Left Early.

By ERSKINE CALDWELL.
Special Correspondent.

MOSCOW.—Aside from Germans themselves, the German language was the first thing to disappear from Moscow life as a result of the war. Waiters, maids, porters, taxi drivers and others who come in contact with foreigners were for the most part able to converse to some extent in German, but German now is a dead language as far as Moscow is concerned.

In leading hotels, all restaurant menus were printed in German as well as in Russian, but by mid-afternoon of the first day of war, English broke out like a rash in every large hotel in town. Since then, English has become the second most popular language. Some Russians are still unaccustomed to hearing English spoken, however, and yesterday an American who had been talking to a friend in the subway was thoroughly questioned until her status was established. Russians, as a result of the close ties now existing between the United States and Britain, profess high regard for an Amerikansky or an Englishky.

Many Germans on Hand.

Up until a month before war started, Moscow contained a large number of German technicians, businessmen, newspapermen and tourists. One of the leading hotels had between 50 and 60 German guests and other large hotels about the same number.

The day before war started, one well-known hotel had only two German guests. One of these left before the day was over, not bothering to take his baggage nor to settle his bill.

The second German, a correspondent for a Berlin newspaper, who was connected officially with the German government, also left his hotel at 6 o'clock on the morning of June 22, two hours after war had begun. He not only left his baggage without settling his bill, but he also left numerous papers and documents behind.

No Official Statement.

The government here has made no official statement regarding members of Berlin diplomatic corps who were in Moscow on June 22 other than in the announcement that exchange of members of the Soviet and German diplomatic corps was being negotiated by Bulgaria and Sweden as neutral countries. No statement whatever has been made concerning other German nationals in the Soviet Union at the time war began.

Red Military Mission Returns From London

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—Return of the head of the Soviet Military Mission in London and one of his aides to Moscow to report to Joseph Stalin was announced tonight.

Lieutenant General Golikov, leader of the mission which arrived here July 8, and Colonel Dragun already are in Moscow, the announcement said. They will come back to London soon, it was stated.

During the absence of Golikov the mission will maintain its close contacts with the admiralty and the war office under the leadership of Admiral Kharlamov, second in command.

13 Troop-Filled Ships Reported Sunk by Reds

Staggering Losses Indicated; Germans Say Drives Advancing.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

The Soviet command reported early today that German troops were being cut down in great numbers in violent fighting in the northwest, west and southwest, but for the first time avoided mention of any town in the battle areas.

This omission—which obscured the extent of the German advance, if any—strongly suggested Red reverses.

In operations at sea, however, the Russians reported an unqualified success: They declared that two German destroyers, 13 loaded troop transports and a tank-laden barge were sunk and that 13 other transports and an additional destroyer were left aflame. This was accomplished, it was added, by the Baltic squadron of the Red fleet, by naval aviation and by coast artillery without loss of any sort to the attacking Russians. The implication was that the action occurred somewhere off the coast of Estonia. A staggering loss of life was indicated.

Desperate Defense.

Moscow's early morning communique, which followed official statements of yesterday that up to that time there had been in 24 hours no substantial change in the Red positions, declared that Russian forces in some areas were counterattacking repeatedly.

The general impression given was of a desperate, bitter defense.

In "the west"—and all the Russian terminology was similarly undescriptive—the destruction of 100 Nazi tanks, along with a great number of other vehicles, was reported by the Soviet command.

In "the southwest," capture of many cannon, machineguns and automobiles was reported, along with a "defeat" for a German unit of 3,000 men.

37-Mile Thrust.

The German high command itself said only that "break-through operations" against the Stalin line were going forward on schedule and that the Finnish allies were striking at Leningrad's northern defenses with twin columns moving on either side of Lake Ladoga to supplement the German thrust toward that city from the southwest.

The Finnish high command de-

President Governs by Foresight In Sea Defense, Thompson Says

By DOROTHY THOMPSON.

"To govern is to foresee."

Because he foresees, the President has sent the Navy to Iceland with the full consent of the Icelandic government.

The oceanic position of the United States constitutes our best defense, allows us to depend on sea and air power, and has historically protected our domestic freedom by sparing us militarism.

But the oceans protect us only if we observe the rule of oceanic defense, which is to protect the ocean itself at its entrance. Inlanders, who think in terms of land, want us to protect ourselves in our harbors and on our beaches. An oceanic power that ever lets the enemy get to the harbors and beaches has lost its foresight.

Iceland is exactly as important to us as the Philippines and Hawaii, and for the same reasons.

The outposts in the Atlantic do not need to be in our hands or under our protection, but they do need to be in the hands of friendly nations able to defend them, and with no aggressive intentions toward the United States.

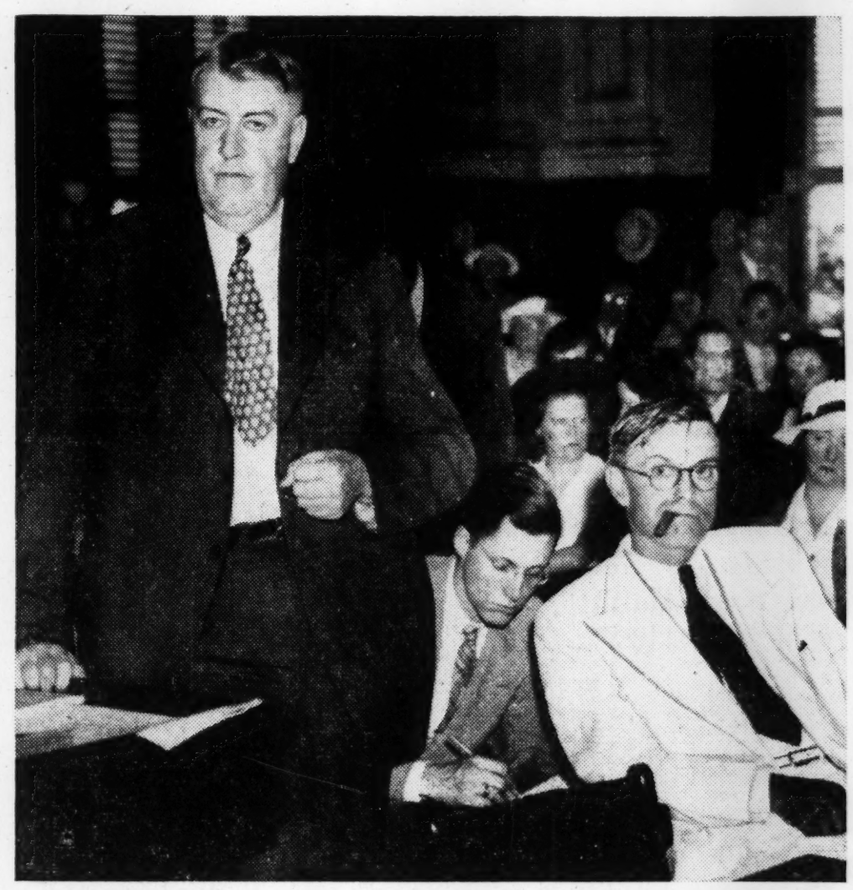

Those outposts are Iceland, Dakar, the Cape Verdes, the Azores, and, above all, the British Isles themselves.

No amount of arguing for and against war will change the defense position of America.

What Franklin Roosevelt is doing, any American President with intimate knowledge of naval defense would do, and Secretary Knox is only following the traditional policy of the American Navy.

The growth and development of air power but makes the tradition more compelling. Naval bases are now air bases as well. No nations

ACCUSED AND ACCUSER—In a dignified but vigorous statement, Dean Walter Cocking (above) denied before the Board of Regents yesterday he had ever advocated racial equality, and charged that concocted evidence "of the filthiest sort" had been used against him. Beside him, glaring straight ahead, cigar clamped in an iron jaw, sat his accuser, Governor Talmadge. The regents by a vote of 10 to 5 carried out Talmadge's orders, ousted Cocking. Japan Closes Port of Kobe; Attack Hinted

London Sees Drive at Indo-China; Tokyo Encourages Rumors.

SHANGHAI, July 14.—(AP)—Closing of the Japanese port of Kobe to foreigners for 10 days from tomorrow was reported today and word ran through the Far East that a new Japanese move was pending, probably against French Indo-China.

Word filtering out of Japan said also that a number of reservists had been called to active duty in the Japanese army. Kobe is a likely point of embarkation from Japan for any troop movement to the south.

(London sources predicted a Japanese attack on Indo-China and Thailand as preparation for a drive against the oil and rubber-producing islands of the Netherlands East Indies. They expected Japan to try to catch Britain and the United States involved in the Atlantic and establish sea and air bases at Saigon and Bangkok.)

Japanese military and naval quarters in Shanghai appeared to be deliberately letting reports spread that Japan intended to attack Russia in Siberia—either on the day Moscow falls or on August 15.

Foreign military men, however, were convinced that this was a combination war of nerves on Russia and smoke screen. They said Indo-China would be the object of the next Japanese move.

A dispatch from Saigon said tension was apparent there, with all quarters expecting a sudden Japanese thrust. The Japanese press raged against what it termed persecution of pro-Japanese Annamites and the Indo-China government was silent on the charges.

Although foreign military quarters discounted rumors of isolated clashes between Russian and Japanese forces along the Manchukuo frontier, they said Japan might risk tackling the Red Army in Siberia if European Russia collapses.

Heavy activity has been reported along the railway from Mukden, Southern Manchukuo, to the Soviet frontier. Foreign quarters in North China said the Japanese had withdrawn two divisions of troops from the Peiping-Tientsin area to Tsingtao, where they embarked, presumably for Manchukuo.

Talmadge's 'Yes Men' Help Fire Professors Before Crowd

Governor Directs 'Show' Before Audience Which Jams House of Representatives; Witches Fly High Over Georgia.

By FRANK DRAKE.

The witches flew high over Georgia yesterday and Governor Talmadge, eight men and a woman spurred the hunt as the Board of Regents voted 10 to 5 to oust Dean Walter D. Cocking and Dr. Marvin S. Pittman from the University System of Georgia.

In public trials in which the verdicts had quite apparently been decided before hand, Cocking was fired as dean of the college of education of the University of Georgia, and Pittman was removed as president of the Georgia Teachers College at Statesboro.

Crowds Jam Hall.

Crowds jammed the hall of the house of representatives to see Talmadge put his two "trained seals," James S. Peters and Judge Joe Ben Jackson, through their act of conducting the prosecution of Dr. Cocking and Dr. Pittman less than an hour after they and Scott Candler, of Decatur, had been sworn in as members of the Board of Regents by the boss.

Talmadge used Peters as principal spokesman, with Jackson as the man to say, "I second the motion."

The Governor, alternately chewing and smoking a cigar and evidently pleased with himself, prompted Peters whenever the new regent faltered or forgot to bring out some point the Governor had told him about before the meeting.

Follows His List.

Peters entered the hall with a typewritten list of the things he was to do and he done 'em.

The minute the trials of Cocking and Pittman ended, L. W. (Chip) Robert, regent, read a resolution thanking the Governor and others which included statements that Cocking and Pittman had been ousted. The resolution was typewritten and was kept in his pocket during the trials.

A fight broke out in the audience as the session was finishing, it was said, and several blows were passed between two men but their names were not learned.

Spectators said, "A man from New Hampshire" was slugged when he remonstrated over a remark by Regent Jackson.

Jackson said, "The most unedi-

American Lavals, Quislings Flayed in Bastille Day Address.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes asserted tonight that Charles A. Lindbergh's "passionate words are to encourage Hitler and to break down the will of his own fellow citizens to resist Hitler and Nazism."

The cabinet member, addressing a Bastille Day rally of "France Forever," an American organization of Free French, asserted that the American people were determined to defeat Hitler at all costs and that their government was under a mandate to help bring about this defeat.

A study of Hitler's methods of internal disorganization and demoralization of other nations, said Ickes, "helps one to understand ex-Colonel Lindbergh."

"It makes one realize," he went on, "what a menace he and those like him are to this country and its free institutions, whether they know what they are doing or whether they don't."

The internal disintegration of France and her resultant collapse should teach this country a frightening lesson, Ickes said.

"Amongst us, too, Nazis, pro-Nazis, and crypto-Nazis are active. We have our defeatists and appeasers, Hitler's conscious and unconscious tools, who would make us soft and malleable against the coming of Hitler's angels of hell. . . . They strive with might and main—these American Lavals and Quislings—to paralyze our wills and undermine our confidence."

Hundreds Jam Chamber To See Hearings

'I'll Give You Whole Works Later,' Bell Declares.

By LUKE GREENE.

Governor Talmadge's puppet Board of Regents grabbed control of the University System of Georgia yesterday, booting Miller R. Bell off the board and then proceeding to fire Dean Walter D. Cocking, of the school of education at the University of Georgia, and Dr. Marvin Pittman as president of the Georgia Teachers' College.

The Talmadge board, still voting 10 to 5 as they had in ousting Cocking and Pittman, then closed the public "trial" by passing a previously prepared typewritten resolution praising the Governor for his stand in ridding the University System of the practices charged against the two educators.

Dr. Cocking was charged with advocating doctrines tending toward social equality of the races, although he stoutly denied he had ever proclaimed such teachings either orally or in writing. Dr. Pittman was charged with using state materials and equipment for the operation of his farm, the proceeds of which went to the college, and with too active participation in politics.

Robert Offers Resolution.

As hundreds of spectators began to file out of the packed house of representatives after the vote on Dr. Pittman was announced, Regent L. W. (Chip) Robert, of Atlanta, rose to offer the resolution which drew vigorous protests from Regents E. Ormonde Hunter, of Savannah, and George C. Woodruff, of Columbus. After considerable argument it finally passed by a verbal vote.

The same five regents voted to re-employ Pittman as voted for Cocking. They were Regents Hunter, T. Jack Lance, of Young Harris; Woodruff; R. D. Harvey, of Rome, and W. S. Morris, of Augusta.

Those voting with Governor Talmadge on both issues were John J. Cummings, of Donalsonville; Robert; K. S. Varn, of Waresboro; Mrs. Susie T. Moore, of Tifton; Julian Strickland Jr., of Valdosta; James S. Peters, of Manchester, who acted as prosecutor; Scott Candler, of Decatur; Judge Joe Ben Jackson, of Gray, and Joe Jenkins, of Hartwell.

Bell Is Ousted.

When the board convened yesterday morning it voted nine to five to unseat Miller R. Bell, of Milledgeville, and recognized Judge Jackson, who was named by Governor Talmadge to succeed Bell. This action was taken in executive session.

When Bell came out of the meeting he had no comment other than this: "They threw me out. I don't have anything to say now but I'll give you the whole works later."

The resolution adopted by the regents at the close of the hearing pointed out that the traditions and customs of Georgia are to keep its white and Negro schools separate, and added:

"We therefore believe that any

Hearing Was Fair, Talmadge Asserts

Governor Talmadge yesterday afternoon expressed the opinion Dr. Walter D. Cocking and Dr. Marvin S. Pittman got a fair hearing before the State Board of Regents.

Asked if he thought the two men obtained a fair hearing, the chief executive said:

U. S. To Build National 'Shelf' To Ward Off Next Depression

Reserve To Embrace Projects Designed for Development of Resources, Services and Facilities; Southeastern Session Here.

By LEE FUHRMAN.

Uncle Sam plans to beat "the next depression" to the draw by building up a national "shelf" of work projects that may be undertaken by local, state and federal agencies after the reduction of defense activities.

This was disclosed here yesterday at a meeting for the southeast region of the Public Work Reserve in the Piedmont hotel attended by 61 officials of the various federal agencies in the 13 states of the region.

The meeting was the first of the Public Reserve in the country. Aims and objectives of the plan were outlined to the officials, and the plan was discussed generally. Today and tomorrow will be taken up with details of the field manual and methods of operation of the plan.

Hudson Presides.

J. Banks Hudson, of New Orleans, Public Work Reserve field representative, presided. Principal speaker was E. C. Smith Jr., director of the Public Work Reserve, an idea worked out in line with a suggestion made last fall by President Roosevelt.

Smith pointed out that the Reserve will embrace projects designed to develop the resources, services and facilities of the nation and through them to provide employment in an effort to avoid a chaotic condition such as prevailed when the depression struck the nation in the early 30's.

An immediate objective, he added, will determine the volume, nature and distribution of this potential work.

In this connection, it was pointed out that a preliminary survey indicates that a backlog of needed work and services now exists to the extent of four or five billion dollars worth of work per year when defense needs and economic conditions make their construction or operation feasible or desirable.

Billion in South.

Of this potential, at least a billion dollars a year is in the southeastern states, it was said.

Operations will be co-ordinated with efforts of the government to provide a six-year program of federal public works and to encourage state and local agencies to prepare programs of needed capital improvements and required new or expanded public services.

As approved recently by the President, the project will operate with Works Project Administration funds and staff, under the sponsorship and general supervision of the Federal Works Agency, in co-operation with the National Resources Planning Board.

The long-range program is in effect the first time in the nation's history of public work planning on a nation-wide basis.

Projects Listed.

Construction projects to be listed will include needed and useful local and state improvements, as well as those embracing wider geographic areas which might be undertaken with local funds or might be suitable for inclusion in any national federal aid program of public works that may later be required.

The types of projects for capital improvements will include conservation work of all kinds, schools, sewerage and water supply facilities, streets, roads and bridges, public buildings, parks, state institutions and hospitals, as well as larger, long-range undertakings.

The 13 states represented at the meeting were Georgia, Kentucky, Virginia, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Texas, Mississippi, Louisiana, Alabama and Florida. Other regional meetings will be held as follows: Chicago, July 17; New York, July 21, and Salt Lake City, July 28.

Court Declines To Refund Fine

LOUDON, Tenn., July 14.—(AP) Loudon county court today declined to act on a resolution calling for the reimbursement of a $97.50 fine levied against a party of Georgia tourists on charges of trespassing during the July 4th weekend.

Prompted by a protest from Bob Hasty, of Smyrna, Ga., that he and his companions were arrested and fined because they took shelter from a rainstorm in a deserted cabin near Loudon, Magistrate Homer Ward introduced the resolution.

For lack of a second, it failed and there was no discussion.

Meanwhile, at Knoxville the Journal and News-Sentinel received contributions from readers to reimburse the Georgians who came to east Tennessee to visit the Great Smoky Mountains National Park and the TVA dams. About $25 has been contributed.

Let HitlerCall Acts War, Says Bullitt

MONTREAL, July 14.—(AP)—William C. Bullitt, former U. S. ambassador to France, speaking at the University of Montreal today, declared the people of the United States had freely chosen their course in the war and "are ready to face any consequences."

Bullitt spoke after receiving an honorary degree of doctor of laws.

"You have seen enormous deliveries of arms, munitions, planes, merchant ships and warships to our friends who are holding the front lines against the common enemy," he said, "and recently, you have seen our Marines sent to Iceland in the zone of the so-called Nazi blockade, and you know that orders have been given to our fleet and to our air force to keep clear the waters of the North Atlantic from our coasts to Iceland. You have witnessed the approval which our Democratic country has given to these acts of President Roosevelt.

"If Hitler wishes to call these acts, or the acts which will follow, 'war,' let him call them 'war.' The flag of our country has never known defeat and we are certain that it will never be lowered before the Nazis."

Britain To Get 2 Million Bushels of U. S. Corn

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Great Britain will take about 2,250,000 bushels of government-owned corn under the lease-lend program, Agriculture Department officials said today.

It was said the Commodity Credit Corporation, owner of the corn stocks, was transferring this amount to the surplus marketing administration between July 1 and July 27 for British use.

30th Division May Be First To See Action

Unit Stationed in South Carolina Regarded as Better Trained.

If war comes, Mayor LeCraw's old division, the 30th, now encamped at Fort Jackson, near Columbia, S. C., probably will be one of the first units to see action, it was reported yesterday.

According to reports current yesterday, four of the 27 divisions now in camps scattered throughout the United States are regarded by military experts as being better trained and better equipped than others and probably will be dispatched to any trouble spots.

When the Atlanta mayor, who is a lieutenant colonel on inactive service with 30th Division, returned to the city yesterday, he was asked about the reports and also about the equipment of the division he has just left.

Well Equipped.

He said he believes the 30th Division is about 95 per cent equipped, but that he knows nothing of Army experts' plans to call it into active service before others now in training in the event of war.

The three other divisions also reported to be in Class A are the first, the third, and the 27th.

The 30th Division is composed of units from Georgia, North and South Carolina in Tennessee.

A change to heavier weapons for the artillery regiment of the division is pending, according to the mayor. The old 75 mm. guns are to be replaced for the most part with 105 mm. mobile units.

Field Equipment.

Officers of the division also are being issued field equipment, including bed rolls, gas masks, steel helmets, and every other paraphernalia for active service.

LeCraw arrived at his office yesterday afflicted with an overdose of nostalgia. He left the boys at Camp Jackson, and he is still champing at the bits, because he likes the military life, but will not leave the mayor's chair unless actual hostilities begin. In that event, he reiterated, he will offer his services to the government for active service.

There was one consolation, however, in the fact that he is not now with his command. He says everything is so comfortable that he might become la "fancy pants."

Life Is Easy.

"Why, the boys are getting everything money can buy, and in comparison with experiences I recall in 1917, their life is easy," he added. "The men have clubrooms, and the officers have their clubrooms.

"Chapels are being constructed in camps all over the country. Headquarters buildings have air conditioning. Every modern device to add to the comfort and convenience of the men is being provided. It's swell, but I hope the soldiers don't become a bunch of softies, and I know Uncle Sam will see that they don't."

LeCraw praised the morale and spirit of the men, under the command of Major General H. D. Russell.

"As long as they have officers like General Russell, the country may rest assured our fighting men will fight," LeCraw added.

Woodland Sidewalks Are To Be Paved Soon

WOODLAND, July 12.—Woodland is soon to have paved sidewalks, the foundation work of excavating and grading having already begun. It is expected that construction of the walks will be completed within 30 days.

The pavement will extend along the highway through the residential section of the town. Camel Construction Company, of Columbus, is the contractor in charge.

13 Loaded Nazi Ships Reported Sunk by Reds

clared that its troops had broken the Russian lines at several points and had thrust forward as far as 37 miles from Finland's frontier, but did not say just where this had occurred.

Authorized German spokesman and the official German news agency went a great deal further than the Nazi command.

Kiev Fall Said Imminent.

They asserted that the fall of Kiev, the capital of the Ukraine, could be expected at any time; that Leningrad was caught in a sort of nut-cracker maneuver; that German tank troops operating east of the Stalin line were pushing on toward Moscow itself.

Kiev, it was declared, was heavily bombed, and its rail system badly wrecked. Railroads radiating from Leningrad and Smolensk—the latter about 250 miles short of Moscow—were said to have been so hard hit as to make them ineffective for military transport in large areas.

(The Budapest radio announced tonight, United Press reported, that German troops had broken through the Stalin line and were about to enter Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, The National Broadcasting Company's listening station heard the report.)

It was said roundly that the Red armies were breaking up and already substantially defeated, although still capable of offering heavy resistance for some time to come.

Most of the available German information was far from specific, commentators showing continued fondness for somewhat vague generalities. One of the few pointed claims made was that one of the series of Nazi breaks-through reported was at the town of Opachka, which is midway between Polotsk, on the central front, and Pskov, near the Latvian frontier.

The Russians, however—and this was from the Soviet command itself—reported in their day communique no heavy fighting and added: "No significant changes in positions of the troops occurred."

Unofficial Russian informants remarked that periods of inaction and rest had become common for the invading Germans and from this they progressed to the contention that the Nazis had been forced to abandon the methods of blitzkrieg in favor of older and slower methods.

One German break-through was said to have been at Opachka, midway between Polotsk and Pskov and near the Latvian frontier.

Rail Lines Smashed.

The Luftwaffe smashed at rail lines leading into Kiev, it was reported, and several trains were derailed, blocking traffic. An authorized source said in late afternoon that there was no word the attackers had entered Kiev but that it could be expected.

The day Soviet communique, one of the shortest yet issued, covered the period through last night and this morning.

It followed an earlier declaration which, by reporting the Russian recapture of Zhlobin on the west bank and Rogachev on the east bank, acknowledged a Nazi penetration to and across the Dnepr river on the central front, but said that this thrust had been beaten back.

Official accounts from the Russian command continued to emphasize the activity of the Red air fleet. The destruction of 94 German warplanes during Sunday, against the loss of only 12 Soviet craft, was reported.

Moreover, it was said, German motorized troops were under running aerial attack during the night, and Iasi, the oil center of Ploesti, and Roman—all in German-allied Rumania — were bombed.

Foresight Seen In Presidents' Defense Policy

with avowed intentions to overturn the power situation of the world by force must be in a position to threaten us more effectively than we can threaten them.

Were the Nazis in Iceland or on the British Isles or in the Azores, this country would have lost what it has maintained for over a hundred years—its ocean position.

Any government that would permit that to happen would deserve impeachment.

This government will not allow it, and deserves confidence and applause.

Extended Service Necessary.

"To govern is to foresee."

The War Department's request that congress empower the President to prolong the period of service of selectees and employ them where necessary should be granted.

We live in a world in which aggressors have abandoned international law, disregard all treaties, and strike how and when it pleases them, counting complete secrecy and total surprise as the first essentials of success in total war.

Any nation that abandons its own capacity for surprise moves gives away its security.

If the President had had to debate the Iceland matter publicly, and for weeks, before the move, he could not have made it.

"To govern is to foresee."

The time to move is when the enemy is weak.

One must establish one's positions when the enemy cannot challenge the move.

Hitler is weak now.

He cannot resist our forces anywhere in the Atlantic—neither in Iceland nor off Africa. He cannot today invade Spain or Portugal or Britain. We must so act that he will be very jittery about trying to do either tomorrow.

Hitler has suffered two major defeats—the first in the war.

Politically, by the mistake of Hess; the belief that he could get a Western truce in exchange for the Eastern campaign—that he could buy off the West by an attack on the Soviet Union.

Neither Britain nor the United States fell into such a booby trap. The victory was for Western morale.

Militarily, by the underestimation of Russian resistance—a victory for Eastern morale.

And a third defeat is in the making: the growing resistance in the occupied countries.

There is heavy sabotage in Holland, Hungary, Rumania, Yugoslavia.

The call for volunteer legions against Russia from Spain and France is a dud.

Is Holland or Norway a Communistic state?

American Ships Ahead.

On the horizon loom the prows of American ships.

The air offense is taken by Britain.

And the resistance of the occupied countries grows under the intrepid example of Britain and magic name of America, that to all Europe spells freedom and power.

The last defeat of Hitler will be the triumph of European morale.

"To govern is to foresee."

To foresee requires faith, vision, caution when caution is wisdom, and audacity when opportunity invites it.

Give our government what it asks for that it may act with foresight.

Never fight on a beach, Americans, if the wide blue sea is there.

Be grateful for oceans. Share them with all, if all are willing to share. But if there's any doubt about them, hold them yourselves, until things are settled the way you want them to be.

Store Council Seeks Peach Crop Markets

Claim Group Works Out Heavy Sales Promotion Scheme.

With peaches selling in London for $1.50 each, southern growers are anticipating a bumper crop of more than 12 million bushels, and the Southeastern Chain Store Council is laying plans for marketing this record production.

In a letter to managers of all stores in the council, Thomas P. Johnson, managing director, yesterday called for extra sales efforts during the peak of the peach harvest.

"One of the greatest services we can render to the agricultural south from now until autumn lies in lending a helping hand in marketing what is expected to be the largest peach crop in 10 years and one of the best in peach growing history," he wrote.

In line with his request, it was pointed out that the stores have already been working out methods, not only of handling the crop from the standpoint of quick transportation, but through heavy sales promotions during the ripening season.

"We have got to make people want peaches and encourage them to buy peaches as never before if we are going to fulfill our obligation to the grower," Thomas said.

Estimates showed an anticipated crop of 5,159,000 bushels in Georgia, 3,081,000 bushels in South Carolina, 2,243,000 bushels in North Carolina, and 1,968,000 bushels in Virginia. This totals 3,528,000 more bushels than the crop last year produced.

U. S. Weather Status Is Varied

Hot weather scorched the far southwest and the Pacific northwest and showers soaked southern states yesterday, while the midwest and eastern states had temperatures 5 to 10 degrees below normal.

Government forecasters said hot weather continued in the areas which produced maxima Sunday such as these: 112 at Blythe, Cal., and Yuma, Ariz., 109 at Las Vegas.

Showers were general from Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana eastward to Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas. The weather maps showed that the Hot Springs, Ark., area has had a steady diet of showers since Friday and in parts of Texas there have been torrential rains since then, Galveston reporting between 7 and 8 inches in 24 hours Saturday.

New Aluminum Plants Sought To Aid Shortage

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—The Office of Production Management recommended five companies tonight to operate seven new government-owned aluminum plants to increase the nation's output by 600,000,000 pounds a year.

The plants, their capacities and the sites tentatively recommended to the War Department by OPM are:

Aluminum Company of America, three plants; one of 100,000,000-pound capacity in Arkansas, one of 90,000,000-pound capacity in the Bonneville-Grand Coulee area, and a third of 150,000,000 pounds at Massena, N. Y.

The Office of Civilian Defense reported that President Walter D. Fuller, of the National Association of Manufacturers, who declared today that there was no real shortage of aluminum for defense purposes, one week ago pledged the co-operation of NAM in plans for alleviating the aluminum shortage.

Officials of the OCD, who will open on July 21 the "National Defense Aluminum Collection" to salvage worn-out kitchen-ware, were plainly irritated.

Ramspeck Will Aid City Defense Move

Congressman Robert Ramspeck will assist Mayor LeCraw and other local leaders in making Atlanta southeastern headquarters for all civilian defense activities.

In reply to a message from LeCraw, Ramspeck said he will attend a meeting to outline the program at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the Henry Grady hotel.

LeCraw was assured yesterday that Atlanta will be designated as a headquarters city, but added he does not yet know just what it will mean. In telephone conversations with representatives of the Washington office, he was asked yesterday to nominate four leading citizens to head the Atlanta office and was told that the Washington office will select one of the four.

Mayor F. H. LaGuardia, of New York, is national chairman of the organization. A representative of the Washington headquarters will arrive in Atlanta today to discuss preliminary plans, LeCraw was advised.

Wage Proposal To Be Studied

About 400 municipal employes drawing less pay than the salary schedule adopted by city council last year will be placed on the minimum beginning August 1, if the mayor and council adopt a recommendation of Stafford W. Graydon, city personnel director.

It will require $11,795 to make the changes effective for the remainder of the year and $28,310 for 1942, according to estimates.

The mayor, Graydon, Councilman John A. White, chairman of council's finance committee, and B. Graham West, city comptroller, compose the subcommittee on finances. It will meet at 3 o'clock this afternoon at which time Graydon will offer his proposal to adjust salaries in the lower brackets.

The finance committee is slated to file a report on salaries with council next Monday.

Intruders Get $5 From Safe Here

Safe-crackers knocked the combination off a safe of the Lakewood Lumber Company on Sawtell road sometime Sunday, but got only $5, Fulton police reported.

It was "just an accident" they got any money at all, he added.

"Usually we don't keep anything in the safe, since it had been broken open twice before."

S. L. Willey To Enter Coast Guard Academy

Selwyn Lee Willey, son of Captain and Mrs. Lee Willey, of 2354 Beecher road, today will enter the United States Coast Guard Academy at New London, Conn.

Willey recently obtained an appointment from Congressman Robert Ramspeck. He stood and passed examinations for both the Naval and Coast Guard academies, and then decided to enter the Coast Guard.

House, Senate Vote Ramspeck Merit System

Regular Uniform Raises Would Be Provided U. S. Employes.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—Following earlier action by the lower house the senate today passed the bill by Representative Robert Ramspeck, of Georgia, setting up an extensive merit system for promtion of all employes in the classified government civil service.

Subject to final conference action on minor technicalities before being sent to the White House for the President's signature, the bill provides that civil service employes receiving $3,800 or less a year shall be given at least one pay increase, within a grade, during each 18 months of service.

Those receiving over $3,800 a year would receive one pay increase within each 30 months of service.

The bill was sponsored by the Georgia congressman as a result of a study by the Bureau of the Budget on request of the House Appropriations Committee. It is not a pay-raise bill, but is a plan to regulate the granting of increases in pay to government employes on a uniform and definite basis.

Ramspeck reporting from the House Committee on Civil Service said:

"It is believed that there is hardly a member of congress who has not at some time or another had complaints from government employes that they have not received increases in pay for long periods of time; that when raises are given, favoritism and other factors have played a part. The purpose of this bill is to set up a uniform and thorough plan for handling this problem. It aims to bring order out of chaos, and fairness so far as is humanly possible."

N. Y. Poll Ends 2 to 1 Against U. S. in War

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—The New York Daily News said tonight the final result of its state-wide poll on whether the United States should enter the war to help Great Britain defeat Hitler showed 122,802 persons opposed entry and 51,507 favored it.

Returns indicated, the News said, that if each of the 6,960,110 registered voters in New York state voted, opponents of United States participation in the war would win by a margin of 2,853,000 votes.

Secretary of President Said in 'Good' Condition

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—The condition of Miss Marguerite "Missy" Lehand, personal secretary to President Roosevelt, who is ill in a hospital here, was described today as "quite good" by Dr. Ross T. McIntire, White House physician.

Miss Lehand is suffering from a severe attack of neuritis, complicated by an old heart ailment. She has been free of pain this past 48 hours for the first time in several weeks.

Aid to Britain At Any Cost, Knox Urges

'No Sane Man Wants War,' Navy Head Adds.

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Secretary of the Navy Knox urged today a policy of aiding Britain "at whatever cost to ourselves," asserting "a war of defense against Nazism would be infinitely preferable to a peace accomplished by a surrender to Hitlerism."

In an interview marking the end of a year in the cabinet, Knox observed that "no sane man wants war," but added:

"I happen to belong to a school of thinkers who regard as imperative a policy of aiding Britain at whatever cost to ourselves, to promote both our present security and future national welfare."

"I have been realistic enough to pursue that policy wherever the pursuit of such a policy might lead," he continued. "I hope it will not lead us into war."

Commenting on some references to him as leader of the "war party," he declared:

"Any man who deliberately seeks to involve his country in war for the mere purpose of precipitating armed conflict would have to be crazy or malevolent to such a degree as to deserve incarceration."

Expressing gratification at the Navy's progress during the last 12 months, Knox attributed most of it to the officers and men under him.

NO NEGOTIATED PEACE, PAUL McNUTT VOWS

MILWAUKEE, July 14.—(AP)—The war abroad is America's war, and the United States never will make a negotiated peace with Hitler, Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt declared tonight in an address prepared for broadcast over a coast-to-coast network.

"It is America's because Nazi aspirations and the deadly logic of events point to America as the future object of a stronger and more ruthless stage of the Nazi battle for world domination," he told a National Unity rally held in conjunction with Milwaukee's annual midsummer festival.

"We are engaged in an effort neither to make the world safe for Communism nor to make it safe for the British empire," McNutt added. "We are helping to resist aggression for one reason and for one reason only—to make the world safe for America and for Americans."

Group Approves Pipe-Line Measure

Cocking, of the University of Georgia College of Education. He gained experience as a Talmadge regent fast, his conduct indicates.

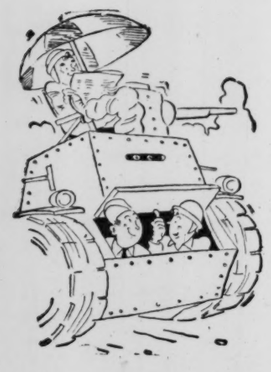

Bob Montgomery Definitely in Navy

HOLLYWOOD, July 14.—(AP)—Robert Montgomery, Columbia Studio learned to its sorrow today, is definitely in the Navy.

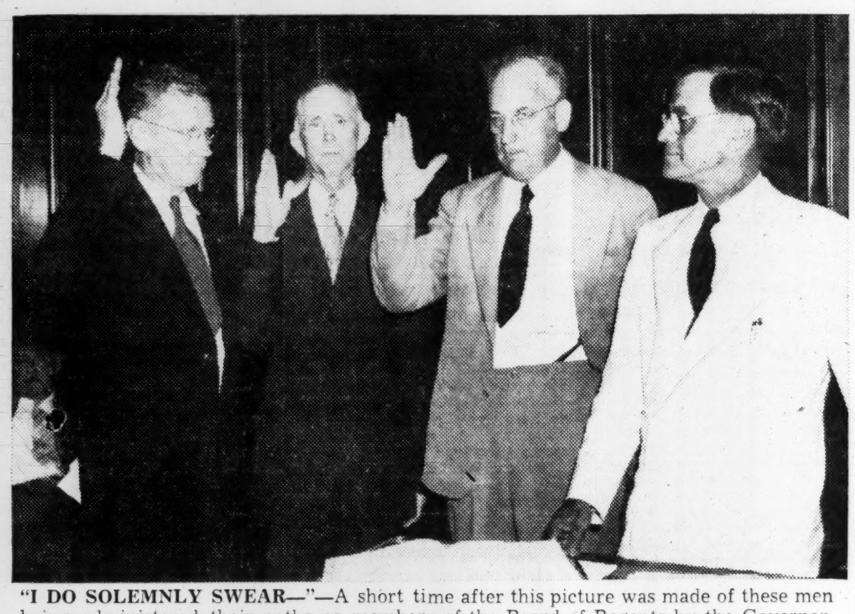

Montgomery finished a picture shortly before his enlistment July 1. After the preview studio officials agreed that one added scene would help it along.

Off went a request to the Navy, asking to borrow Montgomery for the sequence.

Back came the reply. Montgomery is on a training cruise, his whereabouts unknown. The tenor of the Navy's reply indicated that it considered Hollywood had no further claim on him.

"O'Reilley is makin' these maneuvers his vacation. Pipe the outfit he 'picked up' in the Want Ads of The Constitution to make the 'cat' more homelike."

interest by way of supplying funds or otherwise from within or without the state tending to disturb this situation is not for the best interest of the state or its citizenship."

Refund Proposal Overruled.

Regent Hunter rose and offered a resolution that all Rosenwald funds ever received by the state be refunded, but he was ruled out of order on the grounds his resolution was not in writing. Regent Woodruff moved to table the main resolution, but his motion was not acted upon.

The resolution was prefaced with a statement which charged that "there have been a great many exaggerated statements and misstatements made and appearing recently tending to infer that the Honorable Eugene Talmadge, Governor of the State of Georgia, is trying to inject politics into the university system." It went further, and said:

"The Board of Regents wishes further hereby to thank Regent Eugene Talmadge and the Honorable Eugene Talmadge, Governor of the State of Georgia, for the valuable assistance he has rendered to his Alma Mater and the University System of Georgia, and to the people generally of the state of Georgia and to generations to follow, in calling our attention to the vital matters which involve fundamental principles and traditions of the southland, and fighting for their being upheld for the welfare of both the white and Negro races and their future successful progress."

Race Question Dominant.

When the hearing was over and the decision on Dr. Pittman was announced, Governor Talmadge turned and smiled to the throng sitting and standing in the house of representatives.

Throughout both hearings the race question was dominant. Numerous books and pamphlets on race relations were introduced and the prosecution attempted to show that Dr. Cocking was identified with their teachings.

It was also declared that Dr. Cocking was identified closely with the Rosenwald Foundation and that he signed vouchers for the dispensation of Rosenwald funds in this state.

A statement made by Judge Jackson just before the hearing closed was said to have precipitated a fight among the crowd as the spectators pushed their way out of the chamber.

Jackson Speaks.

While reading from a book, "Calling America," which it was charged is used as parallel reading at the Statesboro college, Judge Jackson suddenly appeared to show signs of excitement and in a loud voice he turned to the audience and said:

"An unintelligent white man, if he is white, is better than the most educated Negro on earth."

Although Peters acted as chief prosecutor, he was prompted frequently by Governor Talmadge. Throughout the hearing Peters followed a schedule as set down for him on typewritten sheets of paper. The instructions told just when each bit of evidence was to be introduced and every step that was to be taken in the trial.

One time when Peters halted to study some evidence, the Governor prodded him to continue, declaring at the same time: "They're listening to you; don't stop."

Objects to Recess.

When the board finished the trial of Dr. Cocking, Chairman Sandy Beaver suggested that the members take a recess, but Governor Talmadge voiced strenuous objections, declaring there should be no break in the two trials.

When the regents got to the Pittman hearing, Peters opened it by saying the same sentiment on race relations that outside foundations had been inculcating at the University of Georgia "has slipped into Statesboro."

Regent Hunter jumped to his feet and asked:

"What thing—political activity?"

Peters replied it was within the discretion of the board to elect or to refuse to elect Dr. Pittman on any evidence that it might desire. Hunter sat down, saying this answered his question.

Prosecutor Peters then took up the book, "Calling America," which, he said, showed a Negro naked and in shackles, and attempted to show that this book was being used at Statesboro on Dr. Pittman's approval.

Dr. Pittman, however, pointed out that he knew nothing about the book or its contents, that it was recommended by the social science committee of the University System and he presumed it was being used in other Georgia colleges.

An affidavit from Ernest Cannon, exforeman of the college farm, was introduced, charging that machinery, seed and fertilizer from the college had been used for the past two years on Pittman's 30-acre farm and that NYA labor had been used to clear and till the land.

Regents Informed.

It was also charged that some pine trees had been planted on the property and that it had been improved through the cleaning up of ditch banks and fence rows. The improvement costs were estimated by Cannon at $3,000.

Dr. Pittman produced figures showing that all the proceeds from this farm had been turned over to the college. He said he informed the regents what he was doing two years ago and that he did not know it if he had been doing anything wrong.

Hunter interrupted Peters again. "Have you made a thorough investigation of this case," Hunter asked. Peters replied he thought he had made as thorough an investigation as anybody.

"Then don't you know that two years ago Dr. Pittman reported to the board of regents that they might use this ground without cost?"

Peters answered that he did not.

"Then you haven't thoroughly investigated it," Hunter retorted.

Pittman Takes Stand.

Displaying anger over the attitude of some of the other regents, Hunter asserted that "What he has done he has done with permission and if anybody has erred it's the board of regents."

When Dr. Pittman took the stand, he declared he had been informed of only two charges against him: (1) that he was too active in partisan politics and (2) that he did not fit into the community.

He said he was ready to deny any of these charges and went on to say that one Robert F. Wood had spent a large part of his time during the past few weeks gathering affidavits in the vicinity of Statesboro.

Dr. Pittman said he was not interested merely in keeping his job, but that his one consuming interest was to make south Georgia and the Teachers' College "the best place under the sun."

He pointed out that he would not be one to say that during his seven years at the institution he had made no mistakes, but added that if he had made any they were purely unintentional.

"I thought I was doing the state a service by turning my land over to the college," he said. "Maybe it was wrong for me to give it to the state, but it was done in the best spirit."

Dr. Pittman said that during the past two years the college had realized a total of $535.32 from the farm and that he had not received one penny. He added that he had bought such equipment as fence posts.

The prosecution then brought up the question of a visit a delegation from Tuskegee Institute, a Negro institution, had made to the Statesboro college in 1938.

One Witness Questioned.

At first the prosecution charged that the delegation had spent the greater part of three days at Statesboro and that the visiting Negroes had eaten on the campus with white teachers, but a later witness, Dr. R. J. H. DeLoach, faculty member, said he would not swear that he saw the blacks and whites eating together. No other witness was quizzed on this point.

Dr. Pittman told the board that while the Negroes were in Statesboro they were entertained at the hospital of a Negro doctor.

Quizzed about Cannon, the exfarm foreman, Dr. Pittman said Cannon resigned after he had spread reports around the campus that Governor Talmadge was going to have Dr. Pittman fired.

In his affidavit Cannon said he and Dr. Pittman were of different political beliefs and that things became so "embarrassing" he thought it a matter of common decency that he resign.

Sutton Applauded.

R. D. Pulliam, the present college farm supervisor, testified that some pine trees were set out on Dr. Pittman's farm and that the labor for this work was not turned in. He said he supposed it was his mistake that this was not done.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton, Atlanta city school superintendent, made a stirring speech which drew thunderous applause from the audience.

"I'm not pleading for Dr. Pittman," Dr. Sutton said. "I'm pleading for Georgia and her boys and girls. We have an opportunity to train young men and women in this state so that they won't hate anybody. One of the greatest steps in that direction is being taken by Dr. Pittman."

Turning to Dr. Pittman, the Atlanta superintendent continued:

"Mercy on Georgia."

"He gave the finest testimony of any Christian gentleman I ever heard in court, in the pulpit or anywhere. If Georgia doesn't want that kind of people, God have mercy on Georgia."

W. G. Nevill, Statesboro attorney, acted as legal counsel for Dr. Pittman.

In outsting Dean Cocking, the board of regents reversed its action at a previous meeting when it voted to re-employ him.

When Cocking's hearing opened, Hatton Lovejoy, who said he was representing 10 or 12 University of Georgia alumni in defending Cocking, declared he thought it was a matter of common decency that the entire evidence at the last meeting be reheard, in view of the fact there were three new members on the board. At the last meeting, he pointed out, approximately 50 witnesses testified either in person or by affidavit, to Dr. Cocking's record and ability.

Old Evidence Rejected.

However, Peters pointed out that the board, just before yesterday's hearing, voted to reconsider its action at the last meeting and pointed out he was against hearing the old evidence.

When the board took a vote on whether it would proceed with the case as outlined, the vote was 10 to 5.

The prosecution then proceeded with the introduction of their evidence. A book, "Brown America," by Dr. Edwin R. Embree, president of the Rosenwald Foundation, was introduced but Dr. Cocking denied he had any connection with the book or that he advocated its teachings.

Other books and reports on inter-racial doctrines were introduced and Dr. Cocking was charged with being one of the sponsors of inter-racial meetings.

Mrs. Sylla W. Hamilton, of Athens, a former employe of the education school, who was fired about two years ago, took the stand and repeated most of her testimony as given at the first hearing, pointing out she attended a faculty meeting at which Dr. Cocking advocated setting up a school for Negroes and whites within 30 minutes' drive of Athens.

When Dr. Cocking took the stand, he asserted that "the press in the past two days has disclosed almost unbelievable things. Things that make the blood of the believer in any sort of justice and fair play run cold.

"Terrific Nightmare."

"That such tactics should be employed in any country on earth is hard to believe. That they were employed right here in Georgia has all the earmarks of a terrific nightmare." Turning to the regents, he concluded: "The responsibility is yours."

Final witness for Dr. Cocking was Dr. Harmon Caldwell, president of the University of Georgia. He defended the dean's record and expressed conviction the charges against him were not true.

"I would not for a moment question the veracity of Mrs. Hamilton, but I am afraid that she just misunderstood what Dean Cocking said. Thirty-five or 40 others who were at the same faculty meeting did not interpret what was said as Mrs. Hamilton did."

Regent Candler asked Dr. Caldwell if he did not think the usefulness of Dr. Cocking had been impaired and the university president replied:

"The usefulness of the University of Georgia and many of us over there has been impaired by these charges. I am unable to say whether Dean Cocking's usefulness has been impaired more than that of the rest of us."

Purge Threatened For College Texts

Governor Talmadge yesterday indicated the University System of Georgia would be purged of all textbooks espousing doctrines out of keeping with southern traditions.

During the trial of Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, president of the Georgia Teachers' College at Statesboro, the board was considering as evidence a book, "Calling America," which Dr. Pittman admitted was being used at the Statesboro college. It was on race relations and pictured a Negro naked and shackled.

W. G. Nevill, attorney for Pittman, pointed out the same book was being used as parallel reading at other institutions in the University System.

"We're going after 'em now, though," the Governor quickly retorted, pointing out that the trial had opened the way for an investigation into the university books.

Miller R. Bell Is Prevented From Taking Seat as Regent

Board Votes 9 to 5 To Recognize Judge Joe Ben Jackson; Ousted Member Shows Signs of Anger After Action.

Miller R. Bell, of Milledgeville, was ousted yesterday as a member of the State Board of Regents when he attempted to take his seat despite Governor Talmadge's action in appointing a successor, Judge Joe Ben Jackson, of Gray.

The board voted 9 to 5 to recognize Judge Jackson.

Bell arrived a little late and the board was engaged in sampling frozen strawberries and blue berries—a product of the Georgia Experiment Station.

He came into Governor Talmadge's private office accompanied by Regent R. D. Harvey, of Rome.

Approximately 30 minutes later Bell came striding out of the Governor's office, showing signs of anger. He grabbed for his hat and newspapermen hovered around him inquiring what action the board had taken.

He said merely that he had been thrown out, and that the vote was 9 to 5, that he did not care to say any more, but would have plenty to tell later.

He started out of the office again. Someone tried to stop him again. Bell yanked a jar of frozen blue berries from his pocket and shoved them into the hands of his intercepter.

A few minutes before Bell arrived, Governor Talmadge swore in the three new members of the board—Judge Jackson; Scott Candler, of Decatur, and James S. Peters, of Manchester, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee.

When the Governor administered the oath, he pointed to that part which says:

"I will refrain from directly or indirectly subscribing to or teaching any theory of government or economics or of social relations which is inconsistent with the fundamental principles of patriotism and the high ideals of Americanism."

He pointed out that this sentence had been a part of the regents' oath since the establishment of the board.

Tables Turned In Air Battle, Churchill Says

Tells Jubilant British Germany Will Now Suffer Terror.

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—In two speeches breathing confidence and defiance, Winston Churchill jubilantly declaimed today to cheering thousands of London's civilian defenders that the tables are turned and the time has come for Germany to suffer the terror from the skies she has dealt on Britain.

The prime minister spoke first to 6,000 uniformed members of London's civilian defense services at a great rally in Hyde Park and then again, in even more dynamic tones, at a luncheon of the service organizations in London county hall.

Five points stood out in the prime minister's messages:

1. "It is time the Germans should be made to suffer in their own homeland and cities something of the torments they have twice in our lifetime let loose upon their neighbors and upon the world.

"We have now intensified for the past month a systematic, scientific and methodical bombing on a large scale of German cities and industries . . .

"We believe it to be in our power to keep this process going on a steadily rising tide month after month, year after year, until the Nazi regime is either extirpated by us or, better still, torn to pieces by the German people themselves."

2. There can be "no truce or parley with Hitler or the grisly gang who did Hitler's worst . . . We shall not turn from our purpose however somber the road, however grievous the cost, because we know that out of this time of trial and tribulation will be born a new freedom and glory for all mankind."

3. "As the nights grow longer that unhappy province of Germany which used to be called Italy will have its fair share."

4. "I admit when the storm broke in September I was for several weeks very anxious about what the results would be. We were not then prepared, as we are now . . . but there was one thing about which there was never any doubt—the courage, the unfaltering grit and stamina of the Londoners. . . . Without that, all would have failed. But upon that rock all stood unconquerable."

London To Be Ready.

5. "Will the bombing attacks of last autumn and winter come back again? . . . If the storm is to renew itself, London will be ready, London will not wince, London can take it again."

While Churchill spoke, the roar of bombers sounded on a dozen airfields as a new installment of the weightiest air offensive ever delivered by the RAF left Britain for targets scattered from the channel to the interior of Germany.

A few hours later, the Ministry of Home Security reported that only 399 persons were killed in air raids on Britain last month, the lowest of any since July, 1940, and only a fraction of the peak casualties of last September when 6,954 were killed and 10,615 sent to hospitals.

Resolution Gives Thanks To Talmadge

'Valuable Assistance' Cited in Ouster of Cocking and Pittman.

The following is the text of a resolution adopted by a 10-to-5 vote of the board of regents in which they thanked Governor Talmadge for "the valuable assistance he has rendered to his alma mater and the University System of Georgia and to the people generally of the state of Georgia and to the generations to follow" in bringing about the ouster of Dean Walter Cocking and Dr. Marvin S. Pittman:

In view of the fact that there have been a great many exaggerated statements and mis-statements made and appearing recently tending to infer that the Honorable Eugene Talmadge, Governor of the state of Georgia, is trying to inject politics into the University System, the following resolution is hereby offered:

The board of regents has looked into the facts in reference to the reappointment of Dr. Walter B. Cocking of the Department of Education of the University of Georgia, and Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, president of the Georgia State Teachers' College at Statesboro, Georgia. The facts show that Dr. Cocking has been interested in the operations of the Rosenwald Foundation, which has evidently, together with other ideas, influenced him to seek to have whites and Negroes admitted on the same campus within the University System of Georgia.

Segregation.

The state of Georgia to the very best of their ability has amply provided for the education of the whites and the Negroes, both in public schools and in college training. The laws of the state and the traditions and customs are to keep these schools entirely separate for the best interest of both races. We, therefore, believe that any interest by way of supplying funds or otherwise from within or without the state, tending to disturb this situation is not for the best interest of the state or its citizenship.

The Board of Regents has looked into the charges against Dr. Marvin S. Pittman, and evidence shows that he bought and operated a farm adjoining the college farm of the state at the State Teachers' College at Statesboro, Ga.; that he worked this farm owned by himself with state employes and NYA students; that he has made or had made improvements on his farm with state funds; that he used seed and fertilizer on his farm from the state allotment. Dr. Pittman's justification for this was that he was turning over the proceeds from his farm for the benefit of the college at Statesboro.

However true this might be, it is bad precedent, and one that the Board of Regents should not and cannot condone. If Dr. Pittman had a right to do this, then any citizen in the state of Georgia had an equal right to mix his farm with the state's farms and to improve such farm at the expense of the state.

We have also inquired into the efforts toward the intermingling of the races which has been agitated at the Georgia State Teachers' College at Statesboro, and regret that there seems to be some positive evidence of this aggression within the Statesboro College as indicated in certain books that were being used, and as well as there having had Negro students visit on the campus of this college at Statesboro, which is strictly an institution for white students.

Talmadge Thanked.

The board of regents wishes further hereby to thank Regent Eugene Talmadge and the Honorable Eugene Talmadge, Governor of the state of Georgia, for the valuable assistance he has rendered to his Alma Mater and the University System of Georgia, and to the people generally of the state of Georgia and to the generations to follow, in calling our attention to the vital matters which involve fundamental principles and traditions of the southland, and fighting for their being upheld for the welfare of both the white and Negro races and their future successful progress.

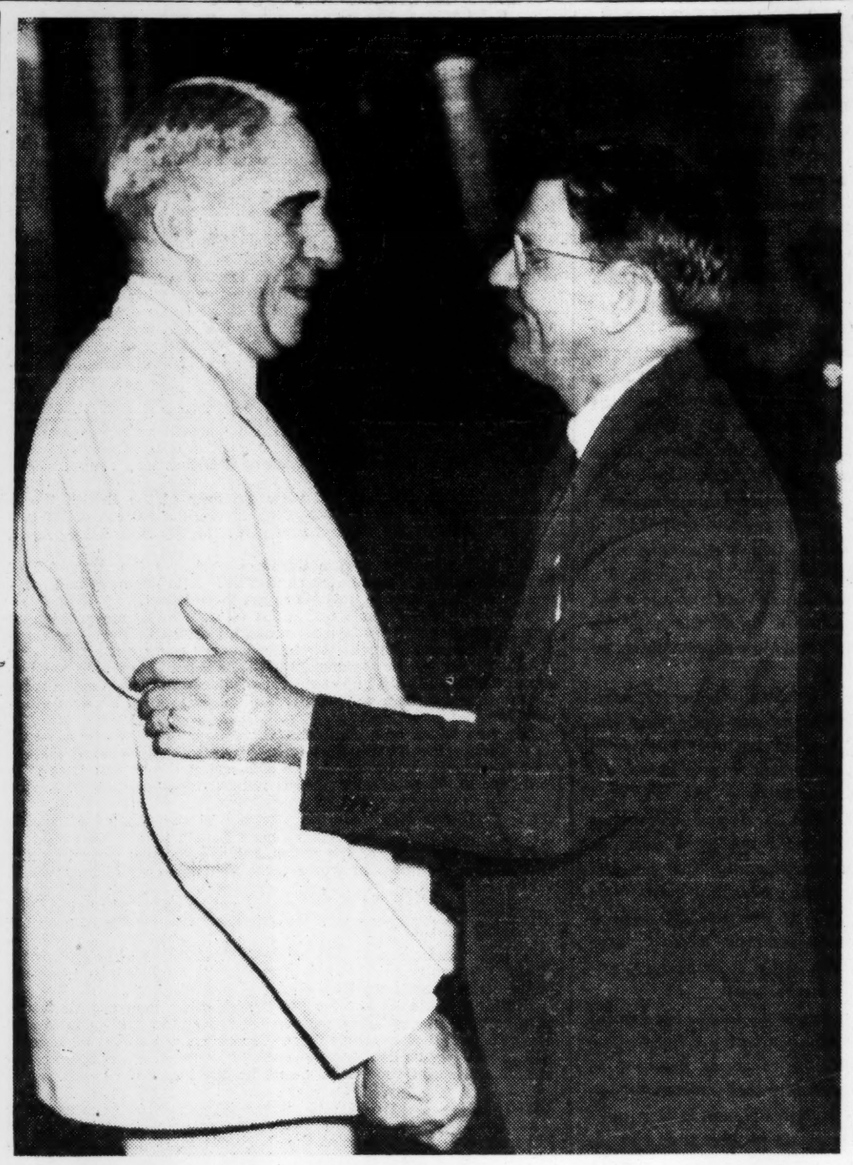

The board of regents wishes also to thank Mrs. Sylla B. Hamilton for her courage for very properly calling this matter to the attention of Governor Eugene Talmadge to enable him to bring it before the board of regents of the University System of Georgia.

The board of regents orders that copies of the above be furnished for the press so that it may have the opportunity to give equal publicity to this document so as to present all phases of this controversy to the public in fairness to all concerned.

Regents Meeting Is Well Policed

The trials of Dr. Walter D. Cocking and Dr. Marvin S. Pittman yesterday at the state capitol were well policed.

There were at least four state highway patrolmen there in plain clothes, constantly moving around in the crowd. They were ordered for special duty at the hearings, it was said.

NO HARD FEELIN'S—Dr. Marvin Pittman, who has just heard the regents oust him as president of the State Teachers College at Statesboro, stops to pass the time of day with Chairman Sandy Beaver, left. Chairman Beaver didn't vote. He casts his ballot only in case of a tie, and at 10 to 5 it wasn't even close.

Talmadge's 'Yes Men' Help Discharge Two

ucated white man is better than the best Negro," as he attempted to argue with Dr. Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of the Atlanta public schools, who was a witness for Dr. Pittman. Sutton had said that tests showed white persons more intelligent than Negroes.

John Anderson McDuff, an Atlanta lawyer, self-styled "ladies man of the world," created a stir once during the hearing when he yelled, "who is paying you" to Hatton Lovejoy, who appeared as attorney for Dr. Cocking.

'Lay Off McDuff.'

A guard rushed over and apparently was going to dislodge McDuff from his ringside seat but Chairman Sandy Beaver and Talmadge both called to the guard to desist.

"Lay off McDuff," said Beaver, misquoting Shakespeare a bit.

McDuff quieted down and was not heard from more, but previously he had cat-called "Yankee talk" while Dean Cocking denied that he ever advocated social equality or teaching of whites and Negroes in the same school, as charged by Mrs. Sylla Hamilton, former university teacher.

The Governor had a slight run-in with Chairman Beaver, whom he asked to resign recently but who didn't, as the Cocking trial got under way. It was over procedure and Talmadge jumped to his feet and flashed his cigar at Beaver, shouting, "You can't rule until you hear from him"—pointing to new-man Peters, who was expressing opinions to which Cocking's attorney objected. This was smoothed over when Beaver asked Peters to confine himself as nearly as he could to the facts.

Once Peters hesitated in presenting the case against Cocking, and Talmadge noted that the audience was getting a little restive.

Oratorical Instructions.

"Hit the chair and holler," the Governor advised Peters. The prosecutor-regent then put more "oomph" in his delivery, apparently talking more to the audience than to members of the Board of Regents who were to decide the fate of the man on trial.

The Governor carefully shepherded the seating of Messrs. Peters and Jackson when the two came in the legislative hall for the meeting. He didn't take such pains with Scott Candler, who sat with the other regents around tables, but the Governor saw to it that Peters and Jackson had chairs up on a rostrum just below the one occupied by Chairman Beaver. From this vantage point, they made and seconded the motions for dismissing the two educators.

Frequently Talmadge would beckon Peters to him and would tell him what to do next—the little things not contained on Peters' typewritten list.

Once Peters read from a book which he asserted advocated Negroes and white people sitting together, using the same passenger cars on trains, etc., and Talmadge wanted it emphasized.

Speaks to Audience.

"Well, they won't do it," he declared, gazing out at the audience, which included Mrs. Talmadge, sitting in a chair in the middle aisle, wearing a snappy new hat with a white veil.

And, oh, quite incidentally, neither Dr. Cocking nor Dr. Pittman ever advocated anything of the kind. The book Peters quoted was written by Edwin R. Embree, president of the Rosenwald Foundation.

Lovejoy drew a laugh from the audience when he asked Peters if all the books and pamphlets he quoted from were not written by "furriners."

The documents used by Peters against Cocking and Pittman were all written and published outside of Georgia.

One book, used as parallel reading in social science classes of the University system, showed a Negro man with chains on his arms. The picture was intended only as a symbol of the Negro race, but Judge Jackson took the picture literally.

"Have you ever seen a naked Negro man with chains on his arms walking on the streets or anywhere?" he shouted. "I've tried a thousand of them but I never saw one like this come into my court. It's a lie!"

"Tell 'em about the niggers from Tuskegee visiting here in Georgia at Statesboro," Talmadge ordered Peters at one phase.

Peters asserted that Negro teachers from Tuskegee had come to the Georgia Teachers College and had eaten on the campus with white people. This incident was woven in and out of the trials of both Cocking and Pittman by Peters as evidence against both men—though it allegedly only happened in Statesboro and Cocking knew nothing of it.

Teacher Is Witness.

Professor R. J. DeLoach, member of the faculty of the Georgia Teachers College, was sworn as a witness by the prosecution to explain this incident. He was a Talmadge witness.

"I saw the Negroes eating something on the campus, and I think it was some sandwiches, but as to whether there were any teachers or students eating with them, I just don't know," was the substance of DeLoach's testimony on this point.

Peters attempted to get him to say the Negroes and white people were sitting around tables on the campus eating together, but the witness never did.

Peters attacked the Rosenwald Fund for trying to "buy out Georgia" for a few thousand dollars but while he was talking he paused for a moment.

"Go ahead, keep it going," prompted Talmadge, sprawled in a chair near Peters.

Ormonde Hunter, of Savannah, and George Woodruff, of Columbus, were the only regents who raised their voices in defense of Cocking and Pittman as Peters brought out the charges. Hunter frequently tried to bring out the shallowness of Peters' investigation into the charges against the two educators but was unable to get very far.

The regents at an executive meeting in the Governor's private office prior to the public trials, had already voted 9 to 5 to reconsider the action of June 16 re-employing Cocking, and that was the tipoff on the way the wind was blowing.

Tennesseeans Are Amazed at Cocking Affair

Dean Never Encountered Criticism There, Educators Say.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 14.—(UP)—Nashville educators who worked for seven years with Walter D. Cocking, Iowa-born son of an English Confederate sympathizer, today expressed "surprise, shock, amazement," at Cocking's dismissal as dean of the University of Georgia's College of Education.

Relating that Cocking was "reared in a democratic family in Republican Iowa, where his father, an Englishman who was an outspoken southern sympathizer, settled shortly after the Civil War," Dr. S. C. M. Garrison, president of Peabody College, described Cocking's work as a professor in Peabody College and as Tennessee commissioner of education from 1933 to 1937.

"I know Walter Cocking never encountered the slightest criticism for anything—including racial views—in five years as professor of school administration at Peabody," Garrison said. "I know he held no belief that Negroes and whites should be educated together, and I know he never advocated any 'breaking down of the color line' as Tennessee's education commissioner. I'm surprised and amazed at the action of the Georgia Board of Regents."

Former Governor Hill McAlister, who named Cocking as state education commissioner after conferences with state educational leaders in 1933, said, "There was no criticism of any of Doctor Cocking's work in Tennessee."

The chancellor of Vanderbilt University, Dr. Oliver C. Carmichael, said, "From my knowledge of Cocking I would certainly consider him a good, safe school administrator for any school or state in the south, and I do not believe his worth to any school organization in the south could be impaired in the slightest by his Iowa birth."

Governor Prentice Cooper declined comment, saying he didn't want to become involved in a Georgia controversy.

ORDERED TO ARMY.

AMERICUS, Ga., July 14.—Dr. Andrew Kimble, dentist, and reserve officer in the Army Medical Corps, has been ordered to report for duty July 25. Dr. Kimble is prominent in civic affairs here and is a member of the Third District Dental Association.

Disappointed Over Actions, Sanford Admits

University Chancellor Is Excluded From Executive Session.

S. V. Sanford, chancellor of the University System of Georgia, said he was a mighty disappointed man yesterday when the board of regents followed the lead of Governor Talmadge and voted 10 to 5 not to re-emloy Dean Walter D. Cocking and Dr. Marvin S. Pittman.

After the public trials the board of regents went into an executive session in the Governor's office and from this conclave Dr. Sanford was excluded.

Sitting alone in one of the big, red leather chairs just outside the Governor's door, the chancellor twisted and untwisted a scrap of paper.

"I didn't attend the trials," he said. "There wasn't any use."

Chancellor Sanford, as head of the University System of Georgia, had recommended the re-employment of both Cocking and Pittman. He added that their terms run until August 31.

He said he had no idea who would he recommend to fill their places.

"Do you know if the Governor has any more actions planned against any other members of the University System?" he was asked.

"No, I don't," he replied.

The Ax Falls

The ax has fallen. Summary execution has been meted out to two of Georgia's leading educators. Dean Cocking, of the school of education at the University of Georgia, at Athens, and President Marvin S. Pittman, of the Georgia Teachers' College at Statesboro, have been ousted from their posts by a Board of Regents packed by Governor Talmadge. The Governor had already announced what the outcome would be.

One man rule—dictatorship—holds the state capitol today, whether Georgians like it or not. On absurd, trumped-up charges, shown to have no foundation in fact, two good men have been deprived of their posts of service to the state, simply because Gene Talmadge so decreed.

Never was there more summary acquiescence in the will of a dictator, under Hitler in Germany, Mussolini in Italy, Stalin in Russia or Franco in Spain, than was witnessed yesterday under Talmadge in Georgia. The only difference is that, whereas in Georgia the dictator appears satisfied in driving these men from their posts as educators, in other dictator-ridden lands they would probably have faced firing squad or executioner. The individual fate would have been different, but the principle, or lack of it, is the same.

After a hearing that was farcical in its bias, a hearing at which the accused were given no proper opportunity to hear intelligent evidence against them or to refute such evidence —if there exists any—both men were voted out of their posts. The vote in each case was the same, 10 to 5. In neither case was it on the issue of guilt or innocence of any charge, but simply on whether or not they should be retained in the University System.

As far as Dean Cocking and Dr. Pittman are concerned, the thing is ended. But as far as the state of Georgia, the University System and the young men and women of Georgia who seek education are concerned, it has but begun.

For the state, the university and its youth all suffered, at that hearing yesterday, a blow from which they cannot fully recover for years to come.

The state has witnessed unscrupulous resort to the stirring of racial hatreds for the purposes of political appeal to the unthinking. The state has witnessed its own chief executive stoop to a method paralleled nowhere else save in Germany, the method of stirring the ignorant to mass prejudice against a helpless racial minority.

Th University has witnessed the destroying hand of politics grasp it by the throat and, unless an aroused people demand that this menace cease, it faces an immediate future so futile for the cause of education that its devoted leaders and its alumni must weep today.

And the youth of Georgia has seen, today, an event which cannot fail to reduce the freedom of education in Georgia, which cannot fail to weaken and to taint the state's university.

For it signalized the coming of ruthless, one-man dictatorship for a Georgia which has proudly held herself democratically free ever since the days when she was one of the original 13 states.

There is neither man nor woman in Georgia, engaged in work paid for out of state funds, who cannot be as summarily ousted on the most absurd of trumped-up charges or on personal animosity alone, so long as Governor Talmadge can pack the jury with men or women who will rubber-stamp his will as he packed the Board of Regents in order to "get rid" of Cocking and Pittman.

One of our outstanding diplomats abroad speaks eight languages fluently, while his wife sp-aks five; which gives the fellow a slight advantage, on paper.

It might interest the sweet young thing, now affecting the stylish broomstick dress, to know what a broomstick is.

Yank Bombers Are There!

American heavy bombers, rated the best in the world, soon will be droning over Berlin, punctuating their path with the karrummph of heavy bombs. The British are promising that the bombing of London will seem like child's play compared to the devastation that will be visited upon the capital of the German Reich.

It is not pleasant to contemplate this destruction. But neither has it been pleasant to read about the destruction of shrines that have lived in the souls of men for centuries in London, in Plymouth and in Edinburgh. Nor to read of the tragic toll of Nazi bombs rained from a dark sky to reddened earth on the peoples of England, of Scotland and of Ireland.

War can never be a pleasant thing, but there is a measure of satisfaction in the knowledge that the great bombers built in America are tagged "Berlin via England." High in the night skies over Germany will drone the ceaseless message that the "Yanks are here." And more coming!

America's weight is just now being felt overseas. The United States Navy has quietly and efficiently taken over in Iceland. The goods will be delivered. This country's great contribution in the industrial race has been the bombers. Europe with its narrow boundaries never knew the need for the great flagships of the air, and consequently the greatest development of fighting planes and short-range bombers has come there. But this country with its wide skies developed the swift striking power combined with range that makes American bombers the world's best.

The huge four-engined ships, capable of striking deep into the heart of the Reich. The swift two-engined Douglas attack bombers, so speedy and maneuverable that the British are using them also as fighter planes. The gull-like Catalinas that trailed the Bismarck to her fate. The Hudsons of the coastal command that sweep the shores of Norway day after day. And now the swift interceptors and pursuits, equal to the best in Europe's skies.

Hitler didn't think it could be done. His mistake will drill his ears night after night when the RAF comes to Berlin as the luftwaffe came to London.

For a safe and sane celebration, give us Tokyo's quiet observance of the fourth anniversary of the outbreak of the incident in China.

The Crowded Air

While there have been few, if any, instances of plane crashes because of the congestion of air traffic, it is nevertheless an interesting sign of the times when a special committee of the house recommends to congress that federal jurisdiction be promptly assumed over the navigable air above the United States.

Of special significance at this time is the recommendation that the federal government control not only traffic moving through the air but, also, "missiles projected into it."

Nothing has more dramatically emphasized the rapid increase in both air traffic and defense program than this. When missiles from Army and Navy guns constitute a menace to commercial air traffic there can be no small numbers of either missiles or commercial planes using the air.

For, surely, there is ample air space above the United States, it would appear, for all to have operational room.

It is charged by the committee, however, that little consideration has been shown by the Army and Navy in placing antiaircraft and other guns for practice shooting, with the result that in various places these guns fire directly into or through designated commercial airways.

Let's not sit idle until congestion in the airlanes, complicated by roving shells and explosives, becomes as bad as it is on the highways on a pleasant Sunday afternoon.

These new RAF super-bombs, which lift whole rows of buildings, may presently leave Kiel where Hamburg has been, and vice versa.

A Missouri city council threatens action against the high collars on local beers. This, it says in substance, is no time for half-way measures.

Georgia Editors Say:

A REAL BOTTLENECK.

(From The Waycross Journal-Herald.)

Announcement has been made that work is being started on making the highway from Atlanta to Marietta a four-lane highway because it is a bottleneck.

We need to keep in mind that this same urgency applies to the United States Highway No. 1 from Alma to Waycross to Folkston to the Florida line.

This stretch of highway is a bottleneck for several converging and for several tributary highways.

The importance and urgency of four-laning this portion of United States Highway No. 1 should be kept ever before the State Highway Board and the federal authorities for this area.

The defense needs are increasing travel along highways that connect defense projects, and United States Highway No. 1 is a connecting line between several of these projects.

WASHINGTON PARADE

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.

CONFIDENCE IN BRITAIN WASHINGTON, July 14.—Fresh from a recent economic mission to England, some of our high-ranking government officials have brought back reassuring reports on the state of British morale and the complete confidence the English have in ultimate victory over the Axis powers.

As one of our trustworthy government observers puts it, the British not only have full confidence in their ability to come out on top in the end, but superimposed on this is a determination to win that allows them to consider no other alternative.

This determination is born of a realization of the disastrous consequences of defeat. As the average Englishman sees it, a victory by the Germans would mean the loss of everything that has been accumulated in the building of the British Empire over a period of a thousand years. Not merely the loss of a war, involving no more than a blow to national pride and the liquidation of an enormous debt piled up in the prosecution of the war. It would mean liquidation of the empire.

CANNOT AFFORD TO LOSE The probable consequences of a German victory are worth considering in measuring the scope of British determination to win. The one obvious driving force back of it is that they cannot afford to lose.

According to the accepted view not only of the British themselves, but also of most non-Axis observers, the pattern of Hitler's conquest is such that it leaves no place for the British Empire in his future scheme of things.

World domination by the Germans envisages the surrender of British colonies and dominions first of all. Also her navy and commercial fleet, if it were possible to get these intact.

But what Hitler wants and needs most of all is the position of world dominance in trade built around the British fleet and commercial tonnage. Without this he can never carry out his plan for making Germany the leading industrial nation. He would have to suppress British control of world trade routes in order to make room for the traffic in German commerce required to keep his own economy running smoothly.

The net result of a complete German victory, therefore, would be to reduce the British Empire, with its several hundred million people, as now constituted, to the confines of the British Isles with some 44,000,000 population that is not even self-sustaining.

ALL WOULD GO All the wealth and the sources of wealth that have been British heretofore would go with the defeat. All of the power and the prestige gained by the British over centuries of world trade and naval supremacy would vanish overnight.

But Hitler's fruits of victory would not be expected to stop even here. Remembering too well the mistake made by the Allies after the last World War, he would be certain to make his victory complete by imposing a yoke that offered no possibility of being thrown off for years to come. Once subjugated, the English would be held down under the German system.

Nothing would be left for the British other than a dark future as a second-rate agrarian power, her industries, her colonies and her commerce lost beyond repair. Moreover, she would be saddled with a vast public debt beyond hope of liquidation. Economic upheaval and social revolution would be the inevitable result.

WILL BE NO QUITTING Appreciating full well the enormity of these consequences, the British have arrived at a viewpoint that does not allow them to think in terms of anything but victory. Defeat would mean the loss of everything. Such a state of mind is naturally conducive to the highest morale; it breeds confidence in the power to succeed.

Our government observers have cited all of this as ample testimony of the determination of the British to carry on to the last man. There will be no quitting such as marked the downfall of France.

With all of their confidence and bulldog determination to win, however, word brought back by our observers is that there is no disposition in any quarter in England to underestimate the strength and resourcefulness of the Germans. They realize the problem they are up against. With the help we are giving them, they expect to meet it in due time.

Story of A Pup.

Really, I should have turned this story over either to Dudley Glass or Harold Martin. They are the fellows who quarrel, in their respective columns, as to which has the monopoly, copyright or what-have-you, on dog stories. And Harold is always writing about the pups and kittens and mud turtles and so forth that infest the block where he lives.

But, this is the story:

Two-year-old granddaughter has a pup, yclept "Flip." Name is an abbreviation of Sir Walter Scott's well-known character, Flippertigibbet.

A week ago Sunday, baby sister arrived via the stork route. And Mummy is at the hospital from whence she will bring baby sister home in due time.

In the meantime, the now "big sister" is living with us, her daddy is visiting his mother and the home, which is near Emory University, is temporarily closed.

And kindly neighbors promised to feed Flip, take care of the goldfish and so forth.

But Flip Disappeared.

Flip, probably, got lonesome. Plenty of food and water and all that, but the deserted house and the absence of the little girl to whom he was devoted, must have created a lot of dissatisfaction in his puppy mind.

So, along about Wednesday of last week, Flip disappeared. We all regretted it and hoped his little mistress would quickly forget, so as not to mourn too deeply.

Now, to continue the story. There is one place where the little girl can be found, with reasonable certainty, in addition to home. That is Sunday school, each Sunday morning.

Believe it or not as you choose, but last Sunday morning, as the child and her daddy alighted from the family car outside Glenn Memorial, there was a delighted cry from the youngster — "There's Flip!" The pup was there, waiting.

And, to add concluding evidence of the pup's sagacity, a gentleman who observed the incident, Sunday morning, remarked that he'd seen the pup being fed around the Emory cafeteria, at mealtimes, for several days.

If either Harold Martin or Dudley Glass can produce a dog that is smarter, I'll bow out of the competition. But I do think a pup that knows enough to call on a cafeteria at mealtimes and to wait at church on Sunday morning to rejoin a young mistress who had left home a week before, is smart as all get out.

A Letter From England.

Extracts from a letter recently arrived in Atlanta from England:

"I expect you are all wondering how we liked our mauling in Greece and Crete: well, we didn't, but we have got over it all right except for the feeling that the Anzacs have been more concerned in both affairs than we have, which hardly seems fair to us, though I think everybody realizes that it is well nigh impossible to shift vast bodies of men half across the world and collect quantities of food, raw materials and munitions from you at the same time. . . ."

"Reverting to air raids, I can explain what I mean by a little story about my wife. If we have a siren now she rather tends to lie in bed and wait for bombs or the more comforting sound of the neighboring batteries doing their stuff.

"Some little while ago when work was warmer my brother got into London late one night on his way down to Brighton. There was quite a nasty Hate going on and he missed the last train and decided to come along to my place. He couldn't phone on a private line with a raid going on so he just chanced his luck. He had been away from all signs of raids and this was his first and he didn't think it so good, especially when he saw bombs dropping on two of the places into which he had previously dived for shelter. Well, he got home all right and managed to awaken my wife and, starving-hungry, asked for food and was greeted with the remark, "Hush! You'll wake the child up and then I shall probably have her awake half the night."

"And all the time a hell of a racket going on! Everything we had going up and everything the Hun had coming down. . . ."

Word Stories

By W. Worthington Wells

About this time last year much was being said and written about the integrity of nations and treaties.

INTEGRITY.

Integrity is a noun and is pronounced in-TEG-ri-ty with the accent on the second syllable (teg). It has a short (e) as in egg. The syllable (ri) is spoken like the (ri) in rib.

Integrity refers to a state or condition of completeness, soundness, perfection, honesty, loyalty, or trustworthiness, as: A just, respectable man would be called a man of integrity. We may speak of the integrity of the government, the integrity of a promise, the integrity of a person's or a business firm's reputation, the integrity of conduct, etc. It is also customary to speak of the integrity of an old manuscript when it is unmarred and complete.

He was known to be a man of honor and no one questioned his integrity. A broken treaty is a reflection on the integrity of the nation that breaks it. The integrity of his business was founded on the fact that he was a man of his word. The integrity of the courts was threatened by corruption and bribery.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Storm of Dissent. NEW YORK, July 14. — Probably nothing will come of the proposal, but it was worth while to suggest the other day that the people of this country close the books to further members for an indefinite time, because the very idea has aroused such angry dissent that I now perceive something which I never realized before. It is argued, and very scornfully, too, that any American who would entertain such a thought is obviously no American himself, and this contention plainly shows that we have made a sort of public links of our place which was organized in the first place as a private outfit.

This isn't our country at all, but just anybody's and everybody's country, and it is outrageous and un-American to think of closing the rolls to new members or limiting the privileges of the new ones until we can police up the premises, assimilate those who now gather in alien clusters around the place and weed out those who either do not understand the game and our rules or refuse to play our way.

By custom we have encouraged this belief so long that probably most of us now actually do have some vague idea that some fundamental writ of ours intended that we must never refuse to admit to citizenship all applicants who could stammer through a certain rigmarole and present witnesses, themselves not necessarily reliable, as to their character.

Carrozzo Example. As to the sincerity of the naturalization process I was impressed by the proceedings in the case of a dirty criminal named Mike Carrozzo, who had acquired control of about 25 local unions of the crooked Common Laborers' International. Mike was turned back twice by quiet warnings when he applied for citizenship but finally got by, nevertheless, on his third attempt, and died a citizen owing the American people a quarter of a million dollars in income taxes on money grafted from the poor, dumb whitewings, garbage men and their like and from the public purse.

This evil man never should have been admitted to citizenship, but he finally got by notwithstanding the knowledge of government officials that he was a crook by trade. If such a man could get by in such circumstances, then it would seem to follow that naturalization and American citizenship, conferring every right except the right to become President, are to be had for the asking. But mere ignorance and criminality are not the only undesirable traits to be sought in applicants for American citizenship. In a large batch of Nazis picked up recently for spying on this nation's defense for Adolf Hitler, all of them presumably quite bright and without criminal records, a considerable number were naturalized citizens. And, of course, we know throughout from long experience that politicians manipulate blocs of naturalized but, by no means Americanized, aliens voting as citizens in American elections.

Whose Country? But I am edified by the indignant rejection of the very idea that the native American is un-American in suggesting something that has been summed up derisively as "America for Americans?" If America is not for Americans whose country is this? Certainly the native American, with few exceptions, grows up knowing and believing in his country. He has the feel of America and, confidentially, he grows weary of hearing of his duty to make things pleasant for the foreign-born and to accept the leadership and teachings of men who came here from abroad, not all of them merely to be free, but many of them to dirty up this land, abuse its privileges and impose on its hospitality.

If citizenship were restricted to the native citizen, then, in time we should at least be able to conduct an American country by and for Americans only. The guest status of the alien would be established, and there would be no possibility of his interfering in American politics. If public office were restricted to native Americans we undoubtedly would continue to elect some very bad public officers, but they would be American bad men, anyway, and our mistakes and failures would be our own. Our native crooks and traitors are no worse than our import jobs, and we know better how to deal with them.

As to the foreign-born who have borne arms for the United States there seems to be undue emphasis. For recognizing fully the devotion to the U. S. A. and the sacrifices made in war by Americans who were born abroad the fact remains that the American forces always have been mainly composed of native Americans. They never have been, as might be inferred from this argument, a foreign legion of the U. S. A.

Fish for Legacy.

Under the will of George P. Trentham, contractor and fly fisherman of international fame, who died in Shropshore, England, his sons and co-directors of the firm must hold a fishing contest at Loch Leven. The one catching the biggest basket of trout will receive $100 and throw Trentham's ashes into the lake. The contest must wait until after the war because two of the three sons are with the army. Trentham left about $750,000.

Speeches Taped.

Speeches and musical selections are being printed on paper tape in Russia, according to a Moscow report. The sound is first recorded on film and then is printed on the tape. Last year an experimental factory produced 20 recording machines and 20,000 "phonograms," including dramatic, musical and operatic performances. It is planned to print 150,000 phonograms this year.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH McGILL.

CANDIDATES FOR GOVERNOR Senate political observers yesterday watched the farcical trials of Dr. Cocking and Dr. Pittman not for the verdict which the Governor had announced ten days ago, but for the answer to the question they all had been asking.

They soon had it. The trials served as the platform from which to announce and publicize the candidacy of Eugene Talmadge for the United States senate, opposing Junior Senator Richard B. Russell in the 1942 primary, and the candidacy of James Peters, of Manchester, for governor of Georgia in the 1942 primary.

Mr. Peters, a highly esteemed banker, and a Talmadge man who says he never questions the boss, took charge of the hearings. It was his first meeting as a member of the Board of Regents but it was he who stood just behind the Governor and below Chairman Sandy Beaver and ran the show. He held in his hand a typewritten sheet of paper on which the program, agreed on by the majority of the regents at a dinner held at the Governor's Mansion Sunday night, was outlined. It was the usual steamroller of the party in power.

It was the usual party method to get a majority in advance write out the motions to be made and the order of their making them, to offer them and get the votes.

The show meant, also, that the Board of Regents officially now is a political board. To the politicians there was nothing strange in the newest member of the board taking charge of the show. They understood.

Mr. Peters was being presented as the crown prince to the Talmadge throne, the next candidate for governor with the boss running against Dick Russell.

And, if Dick Russell and his supporters are wise they immediately will get to work. The choice of Jim Peters as the next gubernatorial candidate is the strangest one they could have made. They put aside Charley Redwine, also a good candidate, because he once was defeated. Peters, they believed, would have a stronger appeal. The bell has rung and if the Russell organization doesn't hear it, it can have no one else but itself to blame.

ATTACK OF THE UNIVERSITY Political observers never believed there was any sincerity behind the sudden attack on Doctors Cocking and Pittman. It was a political move designed to unite the Talmadge factions and designed also to present the Governor in a flood of publicity so as to indicate that the "Old Gene" was back again. The Governor had been a little worried about some unrest in his own ranks. The road jobs really can't be given out until after October. People were saying he was a sick man, and so on. Then, too, he wanted to stir up strife in the university and to control it. The university people never have voted for Talmadge. He was out to frighten them and to take control so that he could fire any professor who talked out of line.

This action of yesterday and the action of the regents effectively terrorizes the faculties of the colleges in the state university system. They know that if they want to keep at work and feed their families, they must speak their real thoughts only in the privacy of their bedrooms, lest they find themselves hailed before the accusing regents and accused of some crime supported by scurrilous and untruthful affidavits obtained largely by purchase or by intimidation. The methods already exposed are a sickening chapter. And, one may add, a frightening one.

As for the hearings, they were but a circus to entertain the invited guests. The emperor must feed his lions.

At least four or five of the ten regents who voted for the verdict given them ten days ago will have some bad nights living with their consciences. Aside from that, there were no new developments at the hearing. Instead of an hour they might have given each side five minutes. The verdict was in the bag and had been there long enough to get faded.

STRONG CANDIDATES Governor Talmadge will be a strong candidate for the United States senate. The Talmadge people frankly admit that, for the first time in their political history, they have a really effective organization. Until now, they will tell you, they have gone along without a closely knit organization. Now they have it.

Successful candidates in state politics are successful because they have the support of the local groups. The county and city politicians who can control votes elect the state officials.

A candidate who has nothing to promise the local politicians won't get very far. The Talmadge organization will have a lot to promise. If they can put over a senator and a governor, they will have more to promise than any other organization.

They then will have progressed as did the late Huey Long when he was in the senate and had his man in as governor.

Huey's next step was to control, by appointment or election, all the judges and through them the courts.

Perpetual Motion Is Impossible Without Perpetual Power

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Many people shy away from any discussion of religion. The word itself irritates or embarrasses them. Something in the church has offended them, perhaps; or they never have attended church, but have read something about it that enraged and disgusted them.

They may not pretend to be better than religious people, or think themselves wiser than an institution that has lived for two thousand years and nurtured a great civilization, but they see human faults where they had looked for perfection, and they are prejudiced against all religion.

Yet, as Churchill said in his last broadcast, there are times when all pray. And in times like these, when the very foundations of civilization seem to be crumbling, all but the most arrogant feel the need of some sustaining faith—a belief in something that is solid and eternal. Without it, life seems a meaningless groping and stumbling in a fog, without light or guidance or hope.

Yet, with the best will in the world, no man can make himself believe in God.

That theology should confuse him is understandable; but, to those who do believe, it seems incredible that any person who respects simple logic could consider the matter with an open mind without believing.

He sees about him a vast and intricate universe. He knows something of its operations—the way a tree feeds itself; the nerve system and blood circulation in his own body; the seed by which living things perpetuate themselves; the countless suns and planets that course through space.

How did it all happen? Either everything came about by accident and operates only by accident, or there is order directed by law. And, if there is law, reason requires the existence of a Lawmaker—a Power beyond the comprehension of human minds.

If there is no law and no God, what remains for us? Without moral law or a future life, we are nothing more than wolves. Ethics and morals are foolish, since they keep us from being efficient wolves. The best wolves are those who disregard all others and take what they can get for themselves, by stealth, by treachery or by murderous force, and Hitler and Stalin are superior and right.

It can't be both ways. We are brutes in a Godless world, with nothing to live for except what we can seize in a few brief years, or we are the sons of God and He still rules the universe despite the wickedness of rebellious men.

What Today's Housewife Wants More Than an Oriental Rug or Two

What does a housewife desire more in that dream house she's going to build if she lives until her husband catches up on the mortgage?

Big living room? No. Nine bedrooms? No. Five baths? No. Air conditioned? That would be nice.

Used to be a time when builders planned bungalows around a tiled bathroom with blue or pink fixtures and sold the cozy nests on those. The young bride didn't bother about looking at foundations or whether the floor trembled when a cat ran over it. Perhaps the sales agent was careful to keep cats out.

But perfectly darling tiled bathrooms have become fairly common. Almost anybody who builds or buys can have one. Or two.

Today the woman who plans to buy or build—or wishes she could—thinks of the kitchen.

Her mother or grandmother was brought up on a plantation with so many servants around she had to shoo them out of her way. The kitchen was in a separate house in the back yard. Why? Good reason. Flies. That was before screens—and flies preferred the kitchen and only a few daredevils followed the hot biscuits across the yard into the dining room.

The cultured lady of that time stayed out of the kitchen. She was afraid not to. Aunt Sophie didn't want any white folks sniffing around and finding fault and getting in the way. Aunt Sophie was boss.

But the housewife of today—and I'm thinking of us in-the-middle folk, not rich and yet not quite on relief—is interested in the kitchen. Why not? She spends most of her time there. Even if she has a servant—of sorts.

That Model Kitchen.

Let me answer the question propounded in the first paragraph.

The housewife of today wants one of those dream kitchens she sees pictured in housekeeping magazines—especially in the advertisements.

Gee, if I had any money-making brains I'd have gone around town and peddled this column to dealers in various lines.

She wants a kitchen of tiles. She wants built-in cabinets and stove and sink and pantry and refrigerator. All of white enamel or stainless steel. With an electric dishwasher. And nothing that can get dirty and no place for dirt to accumulate. She wants gadgets and dingbats. She wants a kitchen that's as antiseptic as a surgeon's operating room, without the iodoform fragrance, which might mix with the butter.

Ours is a nice old house and cool and pleasant and I love it. The kitchen isn't bad. It has almost all the gadgets. But it's just a kitchen, not a scientist's laboratory.

I always dread the return of the Mistress of the Manor from a housewarming in a friend's brand-new home.

I know she won't discuss Oriental rugs nor period furniture nor the lovely swimming pool with its dressing rooms and spots for sunbathing. I know what she'll say. It is:

"But you ought to see that kitchen."

That is when I gather up my magazine and other impedimenta, including the dog, and seek the seclusion of the back yard or the master's boudoir upstairs.

When I get even with the world I'm going to buy a lot and call in the experts and have them build that kind of a kitchen. We can sleep in the garage and bathe under the hose. And in the course of time maybe we can add a bedroom or so to that kitchen. And maybe a living room. But those are minor details.

Told Too Many.

If it wasn't that I have a living to make and must depend partly on my paper's revenues from advertising, I'd be tempted to telegraph my senators and congressmen to pass a law against it.

Because a few days ago my helpmate decided it would be better and less trouble to buy me a stack of new shirts than to sew buttons on the older ones and patch up the holes I'd burned in them.

So she hurried me through my coffee and drove me down town and parked the car and arrived in the department store a half-hour after opening time—and found all the shirts had been sold.

If the darn store hadn't advertised that shirt bargain they wouldn't have all been sold out.

Come to think of it, if it hadn't advertised the bargain my wife wouldn't have rushed me down town half-shaved to grab off shirts.

Anyway, I got a ride to town—instead of having to wait for a trackless trolley.

You can't have too much of a good thing, as the feller remarked when his bride put a couple of pounds of rice on the stove to boil and it overflowed the house and lot.

I'd say a Gordon setter pup is a good thing. But Bill Bowen, down in Bulloch county, is raising a long howl. Because his lady setter called him out the other morning to look at her new family—and he counted 15 of them.

Now he wants names for them. The Bulloch Herald is accepting suggestions. No prizes. Not even a pup.

Time, Place and Speed.

Mayor LeCraw; this column thinks, has the right idea about speed limits for automobiles in town. He says he's figuring on changing the present 25-mile limit by opening it to 35 m. p.h. in some streets and cutting it to 15 m. p. h. in others. The time of day, too, may be considered.

Sounds all right. There are plenty of streets—open to view, with light traffic, where 35 or 40 isn't dangerous. And there are others where 15 m. p. h. borders on the reckless—if you can drive that fast.

Arbitrary rules rarely work. They offend folk who try to observe them, they encourage others who think they can take a chance and get by.

Total Registration 400,546, With 17,099 Rated in Class 1-A.

During the first eight months of selective service, Georgia draft boards classified 201,167 out of the total of 400,546 registrants, placing 17,099, or 8.5 per cent, in class I-A, according to figures released at state selective service headquarters yesterday.

Of those classified, 3.8 per cent were placed in I-B, available for limited service; 1.7 per cent in II-A, occupational deferment; 76.3 per cent in III-A, dependents; and 9.7 per cent in class IV, including all other reasons for deferment.

Of those examined by local board physicians 41.5 per cent of the white men and 52 per cent of the Negroes were rejected for physical defects. Induction stations rejected 15.2 per cent of the white registrants and 26 per cent of the Negroes approved by local doctors.

The report listed 11,919 men as already inducted into the Army, although the number is now approximately 3,000 higher, since the latest figures include inductions only through May 31, an official pointed out.

LaGuardia Warns U.S. of Nazi Agents

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Mayor La Guardia declared today that Hitler "through his agents, is seeking to exploit the well-meaning people of this country as tools, to get across what is known as the Hitler peace proposal."

Speaking to 40 visiting Latin American educators, the mayor said that a few days ago in Wasnington "a representative of the German government disclosed the proposals to represenetatives of a peace movement in this country, with instruction to try them out and prepare the foundation of their their acceptance."

"In keeping with this plan," the Mayor added," statements have been made during the last few days in Italy and France—both countries under domination of the Nazi government—of the blood ties with Central and South America."

RAPS ELLIS ARNALL AS RIVERS HENCHMAN

Editor Constitution: Well, I see by the papers that "Little Bo-Peep" of the River's administration could not restrain himself any longer, although it is a whole year before a political campaign should start, his anxiety to be governor got the best of his better judgment and he "pitched" his hat in the ring with a speech at Brunswick a few days ago.

Now let us see what he said. The nuewspapers quote him as saying "You will always find me on the side of decency in government." That is a strange statement coming from one of the inner circle of the discredited River's, Harris, Spivey, Evans, "Bugs" Glover gang, especially when Ellis Arnall sat through four years of that crowd of grafters without opening his mouth about what was going on.

If Ellis Arnall was not aware of what was happening in the capitol under his nose, he is too dumb to be Governor, and if he sat there and knew it without telling the people about it, he is not fit to be Governor. I fail to find any record of Ellis Arnall ever opening his mouth about conditions during those four years, but I do find where, at the unveiling of the plaque to "Ed" Rivers over there Arnall did say that "This administration and 'Ed' Rivers will live in the minds of Georgians as the greatest the state has ever had." How true, but Ellis did not mean it the way it has turned out.

Fellow Georgians, beware, the old crowd that spent every dime the state took in and about 30,000,000 more, has latched on to the Arnall trial balloon and is getting primed to take us for another $60,000,000 or $70,000,000 joyride. It would be interesting to know who is paying for "Bo-Peep's" daily jaunts over the state to make speeches.

MUTINY IN AUSTRIA.

Editor Constitution: Whenever the nations subjucated and oppressed by Hitler are named, Austria should be mentioned first. Not only that Austria was the first victim of his aggression, that it was the keystone to his further conquests—but, because the Austrian population itself, and, especially, those serving in the army, in the German army, despise to fight for their German masters.

Twice already mutinies of Austrian soldiers were reported. The first in Norway, and in Greece. But how many, may be on a smaller scale, were never noticed, will never be known.

Hitler likes to use the Austrians as shocktroopers wherever high losses may be expected; may be to exterminate them, as Hitler hates Austria, the land of his birth, where he never found recognition. Especially the Tyrolians, considered the very best soldiers of the central powers in World War I, have to suffer under these orders. The Tyrol always was a devout Catholic country, its population patriotic, and proud of their old traditional Hapsburg privileges; Nazism never found a strong foothold among these mountaineers.

I often spoke to American friends who wonder why the Austrians do not desert the German army; why do they remain on a side they have no heart to fight for. In this modern, mechanized war it is much more difficult to leave one side for the other than it was in previous campaigns. Many instances are against desertion; the moral binding of the military oath, the influence of military discipline, the certainty of leaving home and family for indefinite time, may be forever, the fear of the terrible vengeance of the Gestapo on his relatives. All this combined shows what self-renunciation and conviction is necessary to find the nerves and courage to desert.

Much more can be read behind the lines when you hear of mutinies of Austrian soldiers. While speaking the German language, the Austrians are not Germans and never will be Germans. Austria will rise again, and will take its place among the nations in the new, free Europe which will flourish after Hitler's final defeat.

ACCUSES SENATOR WHEELER

Editor Constitution: Senator Wheeler is quoted in a recent issue of the Atlanta newspapers as saying: "I do not think any veteran is going to appear before city council or try to prevent free speech in Atlanta on the subject of war or peace."

For your information, this veteran will be there to help prevent any further spread of Nazi propaganda, or the further giving away of military secrets.

Ever since our President declared a national emergency existed, Wheeler has been abusing every Americans' right of free speech.

One of the finest characters ever developed in Georgia, the late Judge Andrew J. Cobb, of Athens, once said: "During an emergency the classification of our citizens is indispensable. The line must be drawn between the earnest and the indifferent—the loyal and the disloyal—the patriot and the traitor. Each individual by his own conduct during the emergency classifies himself. The public simply declares the judgment that the individual has entered in his own case. Indifference is reprehensible—opposition is disloyalty—a single word of discouragement is moral treason."

An aroused American public is just about ready to declare judgment on Senator Wheeler's kind, or I miss my guess. If he is still curious as to what it is, let him come on down to Atlanta and bring Lindbergh, Nye and others of the American "Next" Committee.

Good Morning

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

Dr. J. Hutchison Cockburn, moderator of the Church of Scotland, in his recent address to the general assembly, said:

"In the warfare in which we are engaged so deeply, the principles of our faith are crucial if mankind is to avoid the pit of destruction." (I pause to say that there is the best use of the word "crucial" I have seen in a long while.) Continuing, he said: "Man is not an economic unit merely, or an industrial cog; and though for a time a general goodwill among the victors and the fear of future war will induce high effort to make the machinery work, the whole problem must be viewed as essentially a religious problem, in which man's spiritual nature bust be given over-riding emphasis. The human spirit will not for long endure trammels howover beneficent and yokes however efficient, even though in his blindness man may be willing at first to bind them to himself. In the last resort man finds that he does not live by bread alone. . . . Utmost wisdom, remembering this, will ask mankind to wear no shackles that are inconsistent with his essential personality as the child of God."

We shall be wise, indeed, if we heed these tremendous words of the great Scotch preacher. In all our plans for the re-enforcement of our morale, let us ever be reminded that it is not enough to drench our soldiers with beer and liquor and pair them off with beautiful girls at dances. They must have a greater power than emotional impulses if they stand up in the face of armies that have been hardened through rigid discipline.

And not only the men behind the guns, but the men behind the men behind the guns themselves need this greater power of personal faith in a personal God. Above every other need today, for the nation that fight for democracy, is this need of spiritual re-enforcement.

Anthony Eden put it well when, in his speech at Mansion House on May 29, he said:

"But that victory stands also for something greater still—that freedom which is our heritage from centuries of Christian civilization, and that security which alone can make possible the betterment of man's lot upon the earth. In the tasks that lie ahead may be given the vision to see, the faith to act, and the courage to persevere."

President Roosevelt said on May 27:

"We reassert our abiding faith in the vitality of our constitutional republic as the perpetual home of freedom and devotion to the Word of God. The Nazi world does not recognize any God save Hitler, for the Nazis are as ruthless as the Communists in the denial of God. Will our children, too, wander off goose-stepping in search of new gods?"

Our greatest need, I repeat, is unceasing reliance upon the grace of God today and always.

Here's what Atlanta users are saying about GAS REFRIGERATION

In a talk over WSB recently here's what Mrs. Peter J. Haden, of 954 Ben Hill Road, East Point, said of her experience with gas refrigeration:

"I bought my first Gas refrigerator just before Christmas in 1930. I was so well pleased with it that when I needed a larger box, I naturally chose a Servel Electrolux Gas refrigerator. First, because of its economical operation, its continuous performance without servicing—but mainly because of its wonderful silence. I can recommend the Gas refrigerator to anyone. If I should ever have to replace my refrigerator, it will be with another Servel Electrolux."

ATLANTA GAS LIGHT CO.

Bob Chipman Hurls 6th Shutout as Crackers Blank Pels, 3-0

All in The Game

BY JACK TROY

Only the Best NEW ORLEANS, La., July 14.—Just to make sure that it wasn't an optical illusion, I went down to the New Orleans bench to determine if the Pelicans have only three starting pitchers.

Frankly, I wasn't sure they had more than two, in spite of their first-division standing. For the two boys Branch Rickey had picked out for stardom with the St. Louis Cardinals were on the mound again for the Sunday doubleheader.

This made the fourth time I had seen Alvin Jurisich and John Beazley in action this season. And yet I haven't seen New Orleans play except against Atlanta.

I recall that Hank Nowak started one game against his brother Ed, but that was purely a stunt of matching brothers. I wasn't sure Hank was a starter.

So I went down to the bench and verified the fact that the Pels have numerous pitchers—Dick Coffman, Steve Warchol, Trader Horn and Bill Seinsoth—in addition to Jurisich, Beazley and Nowak.

But the greatest of these are Jurisich and Beazley. That explains why it appeared, in seeing them four times each, I had been following the Pelicans around.

Either one or both likely will appear in another game of the current series. There are two more games to be played and there's little rest for star pitchers when Atlanta's in town.

Nothing Gained Now and then a manager is successful in saving his best pitchers and beating Atlanta. But it hasn't served much of a purpose. A weaker club comes along in the following series and leaps on a cripple.

It's just an honor to beat Atlanta, I guess. Can't lay it to the fact that the Crackers are leading the league. Because this business of facing the ace pitchers is a regular thing regardless of their standings.

Harry Martinez, called the Old Gray Eagle, writes in the Times-Picayune that the current Atlanta-New Orleans series will determine whether or not there is to be a stretch battle or Atlanta will walk away with the pennant.

Martinez pointed out that the Pelicans have a feeling they still have a chance to win the Southern League pennant. There's only one way they could, however. They'd have to play all 154 games at home.

Admittedly they have played the Crackers rather close in Atlanta, but in other towns they quake in the knees and collapse.

The Pels of 1941 will go down as home champions.

"Atlanta has a ball club that takes advantage of everything. You can't make any mistakes playing them. They're always hustling and making the breaks count."

That's a prime characteristic of any club managed by Paul Rapier Richards, the young Texas firebrand.

Slave Driver Manager Ray Blades is a driver. He barks at his players and generally keeps them on edge. This is the way he has been all through his baseball career. He'd rather swallow razor blades than lose a game. And yet he goes about it in an odd way with respect to his players.

In the last Atlanta series Blades had an Atlanta baseball writer ejected from the dressing room simply because the writer wanted a lineup. Blades, who is supposed to be halfway civil, refused to give it to him.

Naturally, the Atlanta baseball writer told him how he felt about his attitude and Blades called for a couple of henchmen and ejected the writer. As the writer departed in this manner, a player outside told him not to mind because "that's just about the way he treats us."

Fortunately, I haven't asked Mr. Blades for a

Southpaw Lets Orleans Down With Two Hits

Burge's Triple Scores Bates and Mailho in Eighth Frame.

By JACK TROY, Constitution Sports Editor.

PELICAN STADIUM, NEW ORLEANS, La., July 14.—Bob Chipman baffled the New Orleans Pelicans in a two-hit performance as he pitched his sixth shutout of the season tonight.

Hitting timely, the Crackers scored in the fifth and eighth innings to win, 3 to 0. Actually, Charley Brewster delivered the game-winning wallop in the fifth when he drove in Willard Marshall, who had doubled.

But just to make the game safe for Chipman, big Leo Burge drove in his 101st and 102d runs with a mighty triple in the eighth. Burge's blow to left-center rolled to the distant fence.

The third game of the Cracker-Pel series, which saw the league-leading Atlantans go three up, was one of the tightest of the season.

NOWAK EFFECTIVE.

Hank Nowak himself allowed only five hits before retiring for a pinch-hitter in the eighth. But the Crackers, as usual, made the most of them, four of the five figured in the scoring.

Chipman was as close to pitching perfection as a pitcher can come outside of a no-hitter. He struck out nine and the Pelicans never had a runner to get as far as second base.

The Southern League's young shutout king has pitched some great games, but his ninth victory of the season was the best.

The Crackers gained half a game, pushing their lead to nine and one-half games as Nashville divided with Little Rock, and they are now within a game of their 65th victory of the season. They'll go after it tomorrow night with either Emile Lochbaum or Ed Nowak opposing Trader Horn.

SMALL CROWD.

In contrast to yesterday's fine crowd the Pelicans had few more than a thousand in the stands on Knothole Gang Night.

Herb Crompton hotly contested a decision Umpire Red Jones made early in the game and was thrown out. So Manager Paul Richards, who has an injured leg, was forced to take over the catching.

There wasn't a run scored until the fifth, when Marshall led off with a double and raced home on Brewster's single. Marshall's hit was only the second the Crackers had obtained of Nowak.

In an effort to break the scoreless streak the Pelicans used Grilk as a pinch-hitter for Nowak in the eighth. But the strategy failed. Warchol finished the game.

Red Grange Sues Illinois Director

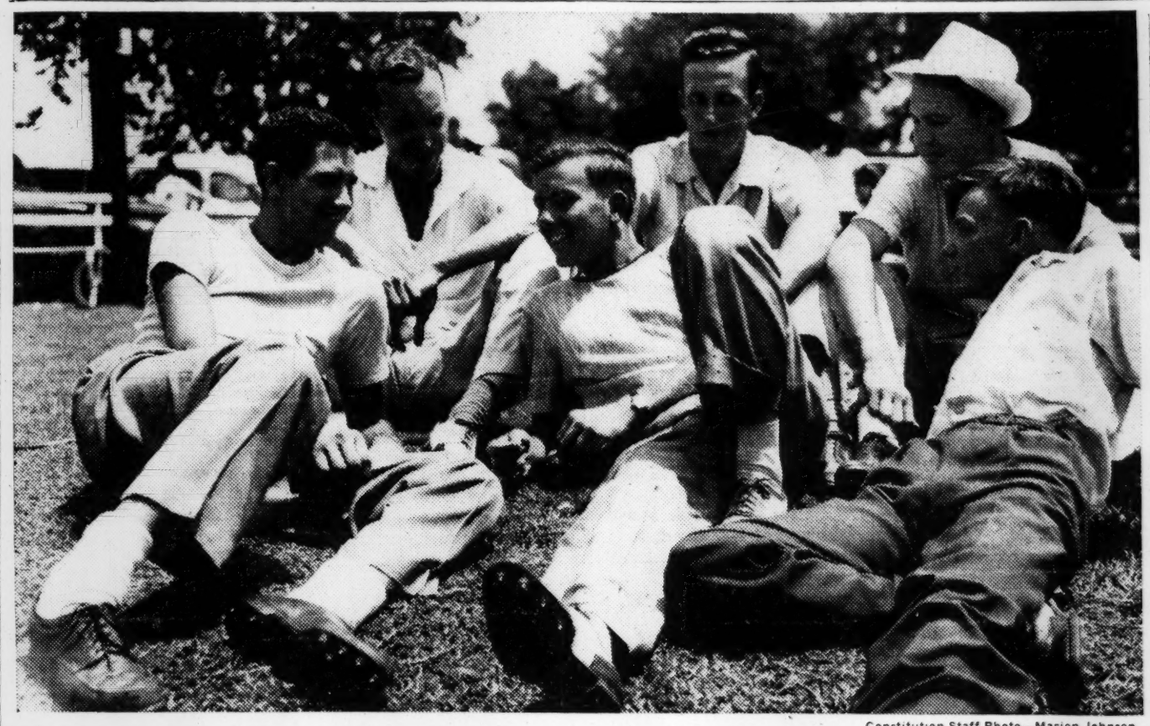

CHICAGO, July 14.—(AP)—Harold "Red" Grange filed a $50,000 suit today against Wendell S. Wilson, athletic director of the University of Illinois, while the bitter controversy over the football setup at the Big Ten school swept toward a showdown.

Grange, famed "Galloping Ghost" of Illini teams in the twenties, alleged that Wilson issued a statement yesterday which was "malicious, false, slanderous and defamatory" and which "greatly injured" Grange's reputation "in the business, professional and athletic world."

The complaint, filed in the superior court by Attorney George Landon, asked $50,000 in compensation.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 14.—Nashville staved off Little Rock's ninth-inning rally in time to win tonight's opener, 5-4, but lost the second game of the double-header, 6-5, as the veteran Willis Hudlin pitched steadily for the Travelers.

Les Fleming, league-leading hitter, ran into a fence and was taken to a hospital with undetermined injuries. It was feared he sustained a broken arm. The heavy-hitting first baseman was chasing a foul fly.

200 Seek 32 Places In State Golf Tourney

One of Fastest Fields in History of Event Tees Off in Qualifying Today at East Lake's No. 1.

By AL SHARP.

One of the fastest fields—200 strong—will tee off today in the battle for the Georgia State Amateur golf tournament title at East Lake's No. 1 course.

One hundred and eighty-five players, including six former champions, had entered the meet last night, and others are expected to come in today before the qualifying deadline of 3 o'clock.

There will be 18 holes of qualifying today, with all except the defending champion, Jennings Gordon, of Rome, trying to land one of the 32 places in the championship division. Tomorrow and Thursday one match is scheduled, with two matches on Friday and the finals on Saturday.

WHALEY HAS 69.

Best score of the hundreds of practice rounds was reported yesterday as Charlie Whaley, of Augusta, got a 34-35—69. On Sunday, the long-driving Augustan had paired with Morton Bright, of Atlanta, to put together a best ball score of 29 on the back side.

Whaley was just another of the fellows who can get hot in this fast tournament. Unheralded, he came up with the best practice round. Incidentally, Bright's 70, which is one under par, was overlooked in the shuffle of scores Sunday. Morton had seven birdies during that round.

The champions in the field include Gordon, who beat Arnold Blum last year at Macon; Dan Yates, winner two years ago; Frank Mulherin and Bill Zimmerman, of Augusta; Johnny Oliver, of Valdosta, and Dr. Julius Hughes.

Then there are a flock of tournament veterans, including such folks as Tommy Barnes and Gene Gaillard, plus what might be called the unknown quantity of young sharpshooters.

That's one reason it's going to be hard to figure this tourney from the winner's angle. With youngsters like Gene Dahlbender, Sonny Ellis, Charlie Harper, Dynamite Goodloe, Whaley, Harold Crow and the rest in there, everything should happen.

COURSE TOUGHER.

One thing about it, any one who scores a superb round at East Lake this week is going to be shooting some real golf. The rough has been allowed to grow, and the course is playing long.

Some one might get hot and do better than Frank Mulherin's 70 with which he won the medal last time, but if there are more than two doing 70 or better, a lot of observers will be surprised—rather, amazed.

No more guessing, though. Let's wait and see.

Gomez Is Kayoed In Surprise Fight

TAMPA, Fla., July 14.—(AP)—Buddy Scott, of Washington, D. C., scored a surprise seventh-round knockout over Soldier Tommy Gomez, of Camp Blanding, Fla., tonight in a heavyweight bout scheduled for 10 rounds.

It was Gomez' fight through the first six rounds. Scott's three-blow barrage in the seventh that sent the soldier to the canvas for keeps took the crowd of 5,000 by complete surprise.

Scott weighed 184 and Gomez 185.

Gomez had staggered Scott in the second and sixth rounds and appeared to be having things his own way. Then in the seventh, Scott poked a left to Gomez' stomach and another to the soldier's chin, and Gomez, apparently in a daze, was wide open for Scott's whistling right to the chin.

Mioland Runs Mile-Quarter In Fast Time

Staretor, Woof Woof Doubtful Starters in Race Saturday.

LOS ANGELES, July 14.—(AP)—Staretor and Woof Woof, two outstanding entrants for the Hollywood Gold Cup prize of $75,000 next Saturday, became doubtful starters today.

George Strate, Staretor's trainer, said the winner of the Hollywood Derby last Saturday nicked his legs and that he would not know until Wednesday whether Staretor would be able to run.

Woof Woof hurt an ankle in the American Handicap July 4. Trainer Hurst Philpot said if the horse worked well tomorrow he would race Saturday, otherwise he would be withdrawn.

Most sensational workout for the gold cup was contributed by C. S. Howard's Mioland yesterday. He went the mile and one-quarter in 2:04 3-5, and did it easily.

"It was the bets mile and a quarter I've seen this year," said Chief Clocker Charles Hagin.

Despite Mioland's top weight of 130 pounds, he probably will be the favorite Saturday.

Gehrig Film Will Be Made

HOLLYWOOD, July 14.—(AP)—Samuel Goldwyn said today Mrs. Lou Gehrig, widow of the baseball star, had signed a contract covering filming of her husband's life.

Also signed was Christy Walsh, sports figure and Gehrig's manager, who worked with both Gehrig and Babe Ruth in movies years ago.

Mrs. Gehrig's contract provides she shall sit in on conferences with writers and producers. The story is not written and no players have been signed. Goldwyn hopes to have the picture in production by November and ready for release in April, after scenes are shot at the New York Yankees' training camp.

Luke Barnes Shoots Par 71 In Public Links

Veteran Dave Mitchell Fires 74 After Going Out in 35.

SPOKANE, Wash., July 14.—(UP)—Jimmy Clark, husky blond from Long Beach, Cal., stole the show in the first 18-hole qualifying round of the 20th annual National Public Links golf championship today when he burned around the course in 64—seven under par.

Clark, among the last of 178 players to straggle in from the steep Indian Canyon course at sunset, had two eagles, three birdies and 13 pars, and tied the course record set last week by Marvin (Bud) Ward, of Spokane, former National Amateur champion.

His sizzling 64 was five strokes ahead of the 69 scored by Bill Korns, 18-year-old Salt Lake City schoolboy.

Bill Fritz, who on work days wields a wrench at a San Francisco shipyard, and Loio Palenapa, a bronzed rodman for a Hawaiian road crew, also cracked par with 70s.

Behind them, in standard figures of 71, were Dave Dixon, Vancouver, B. C.; Luke Barnes, Atlanta; Walter Tebaldi, Alameda, Cal., and Arthur Pomy, Detroit.

David Mitchell, of Atlanta, 1934 champion, came in with a first-round 74. After a par 35 on the first nine he wobbled home with bogey 5s on the 10th, 14th, 15th and 17th. He finished strong, however, with a birdie 4 on the last hole, where he got on nicely in two and was down in as many.

Charley Barnes and Fred Owens, other Atlanta representatives, shot 75's.

RIDDLE BATTERY—That's no fooling, either, for Elmer Riddle, left, is the biggest Riddle National League batters have to solve this season, and at the right is his brother John, sub catcher on the Cincinnati team. Elmer turned in his tenth straight victory Sunday, and hasn't been beaten this season. He blanked the Braves, 4-0, on five hits. A number of his victories have been shutouts. He's beaten the league's best teams, including the Dodgers, the Cards, the Giants, the Cubs and the Pirates, going the route every time except in one game against the Giants. The brothers are from Columbus, Ga.

Fleming Says Vols' Short, High Fence Hurts His Homer Hitting

Les Says Rightfield Barrier Is Almost as High as It Is Long; Wishes It Were 30 Feet Back.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., July 14.—(AP)—Hoping to confound any doubters of his ability as a hitter, big Les Fleming, Nashville's home-run-clouting first baseman, declared today that the short right-field fence at Sulphur Dell, home park of the Volunteers, is a handicap to his homer production.

Some of the Southern Association's baseball partisans have intimated that Fleming's quota of homers—28 to date—and his .410 batting average might not be so robust if he didn't have the right-field fence to shoot at just 282 feet away from the Vol home plate.

Such allegations admittedly irk Mr. Fleming no end. He pointed out that he was a line-drive hitter; that the right-field fence at Nashville was atop a dump and surmounted with a wire net barrier. At present he's topping the hitting parade and tied with Lester Burge, of Atlanta, for home run honors.

"Sure the fence is a little short," said Fleming, here for a series with the Little Rock Travelers. "But did you ever stop to realize that the darn thing almost is as high as it's long. Hitting the ball over it is no cinch.

"Personally I wish the wall was about 30 feet deeper. If it was, I believe I would have had about 10 more homers and maybe a few more triples. Plenty of those line drives I bounced off it for singles would have gone for more bases and you guys can't tell me any differently. The fence is too short and high for my own good or any other left-handed batter who pulls his drives to the right."

Leo Durocher 'Squeezes' Run Home in Ninth

Phils Shade Cards; Reds Win in 13th; Giant Rally Cops.

BROOKLYN, July 14.—(AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers captured a dramatic 1-to-0 victory over the Chicago Cubs today with Manager Leo Durocher knocking in the winning run with a pinch bunt in the ninth inning after the Dodgers had loaded the bases.

Kirby Higbe, notching his 13th triumph of the season, held the Bruins to two singles in a great pitching performance, but for eight innings he was no better than Lefty Vern Olsen, who had kept Brooklyn scoreless on six hits over this span.

Then in the Dodgers' last turn at bat Joe Medwick opened with a sharp single to left and was sacrificed to second by Dolph Camilli. Dixie Walker grounded down the first base line and was safe on a fumble by Babe Dahlgren, Medwick taking third. Mickey Owen was purposely passed to fill the bases.

This was the scene when Manager Durocher left the first base coaching line, picked up a bat, and swaggered to the plate. Everybody expected him to put on the "squeeze play" and he did—a perfect bunt that loitered just to the left of the pitcher's box.

Olsen fielded the ball, looked hopelessly toward home and then toward first, saw he had no chance to catch either runner, and in disgust threw the ball over the top of Ebbets field grandstand.

Hubbell fanned nine and gave only five hits in winning his sixth straight victory, his longest winning streak since an elbow operation in August, 1938. Altogether he has won eight and lost three.

Picking Winner.

Do not get the wrong impression from this article. Little Albert (all 210 pounds of him) is not going to pick a winner in any fashion. This is just some stray bits of advice for those who must pick the winner or the medalist in the state golf tournament at East Lake.

The advice goes like this:

Find out which may the wind is blowing. That can make a lot of difference on East Lake's three par-5 holes, because all run the same way.

Determine by any method—it must be sure-fire — what the weather will be for the rest of the week.

Watch all players who have a chance—there are only 30—and see which one is hitting the ball straight.

After you find out which ones are hitting the ball straight, figure by dead reckoning, compass or sextant which will keep it up.

Now that you have done that, be sure your favorite has a caddy at least 5 1-2 feet tall. Otherwise, he may be lost in the rough, which is going to be allowed to grow.

Sifting Sand.

Jack Ellis is right proud of himself. After 28 years of golf he scored his first hole-in-one a couple of weeks ago at Columbus . . . It happened on the 16th, a 135-yarder . . . The hole has been there 15 years and Jack estimates that he has played it 4,000 times . . . For six weeks before the perfect shot trickled in, he had not been able to hit the green . . . Johnny Oliver, former champ from Valdosta, is wearing a brace on his left wrist . . . He pulled a muscle in his arm . . . That should make him the favorite, judging from the way crippled golfers turn up to win tourneys.

Speaking of the rough at East Lake, main protester over letting it grow was the greenskeeper . . . "It will be like cutting hay," he moaned, "and we'll have to rake it up after it's cut" . . . There is no doubt about the tall grass making the No. 1 course play tougher than it has in recent year . . . That's putting it mildly and no foolin' . . . When Charlie Brumby beat Bobby Adair in the Druid Hills Club tourney, Charlie was four down after nine holes, Bobby having jumped four birdies for a 32 . . . The match went to the 19th hole after Adair got his fifth birdie at the 18th.

1st Bench Show Set August 11 By Trial Club

The first bench show of the Atlanta Field Trial Club will be held Monday, August 11, at the Capitol Gun Club, members of the club decided last night.

The show will supplant the regular August meeting of the club. There will be three classes in each breed, with awards to the best of each class (puppy, derby and all-age), J. H. Geffken, chairman of the bench show committee, announced.

Dogs will be judged on show quality, but with the idea of their ability in the field.

Members of the club and wives were guests at a picnic held at the Capitol Gun Club before the meeting. Jack Tway and Bob Autrey were hosts at the affair, which was attended by approximately 50 members and friends, all dog lovers.

WHOLE HOG.

Can't blame the other trainers if they picket Ben Jones. His hosses ran one, two, three in the Arlington Futurity—and if Ben hadn't scratched Colonel Teddy, the Colonel probably would have come in fourth.

Dean To Re-enter Baseball in 1942

KANSAS CITY, July 14.—(AP)—Ol' Diz Dean will hit the baseball comeback trail again next year.

The pitcher, whose career has fluctuated between majors and minors, said today he is going to try once more and if he does not connect he'll continue in radio.

Dizzy stopped here on the way to his broadcasting job in St. Louis after working three innings for Sioux Falls, S. D., Sunday night. Diz admitted he didn't look so hot in the class D circuit.

He allowed one hit and struck out one, but committed two of four Sioux Falls errors and left the game tied, 3-3. He went hitless twice at bat. Sioux Falls defeated Pueblo, of the Western League, 7-4.

DIZ POPULAR.

Although not distinguished by a uniform, Dizzy Dean signed as many autographs as anybody else at the All-Star game. Incidentally, Dizzy spent his last afternoon as an active member of the Cubs eating peanuts on the first-base coaching line.

REAGAN TO PLAY.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(UP)—Francis X. Reagan, star left halfback for the University of Pennsylvania for the past three years, will play with the 1941 Eastern College All-Star football team against the New York Giants professional eleven on September 3, Coach Jim Crowley announced today.

ZIVIC WINS.

PHILADELPHIA, July 14.—(AP) Fritzie Zivic, welterweight champion from Pittsburgh, punched out a 12-round decision over Johnny Barbara, of Chicago, in a nontitle bout tonight before 5,000 at the Philadelphia Gardens. Zivic weighed 150 1-4, Barbara, 153 3-4.

But I was glad he did, because I wasn't sure whether he talked in the normal fashion or used dog language.

McGrew Impressed A certain big league scout who has been following the Crackers for the last few weeks will recommend the purchase of Lester Burge if the big Atlanta first sacker hits a couple more fast balls as he did in belting his 28th home run here.

Some scouts insist Burge strictly is a low-ball hitter. But not the one who is here at this time. He'd like to see Burge hit one or two more fast ones and wouldn't hesitate, then, to give his club the go sign.

The Pels have a park that is tough on left-handed hitters. A lusty wallop is required to clear the right-field barrier. Burge bounced one off a railroad car parked some distance on the other side.

THE JOE LOUIS TROUBLES.

They are asking around the leather-throwing groups just what effect his matrimonial troubles might have on Joe Louis's next start against Lou Nova. They might also have asked just what effect Joe's domestic and general financial situation might have had on several of his recent starts.

I asked one man extremely close to the Louis situation why it was that Louis fought so many fights and ran the risk of staleness through so many continued months of training.

"Maybe," Joe's friend said slowly, "Joe had to. Maybe certain things have cost him more than you or others know about. I could let you guess on that figure and then add $75,000 to it—and not be wrnog."

Louis has undoubtedly made many good investments. But he has also used up some important cash in enterprises in which the upkeep won't be any too light. Certainly his domestic situation, in the way of harmony and finances, hasn't been any too cheerful.

The General Effect

How this situation in general will affect Louis in the Lou Nova enterprise is still a guess.

Louis knows that if he can get by Nova that another Billy Conn enterprise will draw close to a million dollars. His own share from this gate should be close to $300,000.

If he needs the money I understand he will need, his start against California Lou will be one of the most desperate of his career, especially with that Conn glitter of gold shining on ahead. Just how much brooding or fretting or worrying he will do in the next two months is something no one can guess at this date.

Heavy Expenses

"Joe's expenses," my informant from the Louis camp tells me, "are much heavier than most people know. They forget what a big slice the government and the state take away. It will be far more in his next two fights—if he gets by Nova, which I think he will, and gets the Conn show once more. Joe has been tapped for plenty in the last year or so.

"If Nova beats him, Joe still won't be a pauper, but neither will he be rich. If he gets both the Nova and Conn fights his share will be over $400,000, but you know how much of that will be left after the tax people get through for 1941 and 1942. He's up in brackets now high enough to make even a cat or a squirrel dizzy."

The Next Fight

Nova is a big heavyweight—rugged, intelligent and game. He is also supremely confident in his own destiny. He is a good boxer, but not a great one. He can take a good punch and he can hurt you. But he is slower than Conn and, therefore, easier to hit.

I know the Louis camp, including Joe, feels that the champion has a better chance against Nova than he will in a return match with a Conn who will be a year older.

The Louis camp doesn't consider Nova any part of a push-over. But the camp figures that with a good rest, a relief from staleness, plus the incentive of another Conn entanglement, Louis will be a much better fighter in his next start than he has been for the last 18 months—or at least the last year.

The Other Side

One of those high in the Nova council told me this—"Louis has been slipping for several months. Louis admits this. He has lost at least part of the stunning power his punch once carried. If you'll check back you'll find that few slipping fighters ever got going at the old speed again. Louis is only 27 but he has been a work-horse for a long time.

"Don't figure that we rate Louis as any easy target. He is still dangerous, and always will be as long as he fights. He is too hard a hitter to be taken lightly. No one knows that better than Nova.

"I doubt that you can recall a heavyweight in better shape, mentally and physically, than Lou will be for the Louis date. He will be in perfect condition, keen and confident, and I know it will take a much better fighter than Louis has been for the last year to beat him. Lou has come along the hard way for this chance, beating off an attack of illness that almost ended his career. But there is nothing wrong with him now."

It is just as well that Nova respects the Louis punch. Joe has slipped but he is still a harder hitter than any heavyweight now in action.

Few training camp periods offer much sound evidence. This next one may be different on both sides. For one thing it should give a line on just what the Louis mental-domestic tangle might mean.

Columbia Club Wins To Add To Sally Lead

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 14.—(AP)—The Columbia Reds held a one and one-half-game lead in the South Atlantic League race today after grounding the Columbus Redbirds, 10 to 5, while Charleston was defeating the second-place Peaches, 2 to 1, yesterday.

With an attack led by Garland Lawing and Nick Polly, who smashed homers, the Reds pounded three Flock flingers for 13 hits in the series opener at Columbus. Gene Hinrichs, working for Columbia, allowed five hits before retiring in favor of Roy Peeler in the eighth.

Charleston moved into fifth place by whipping the Peaches behind Irvin Stein's six-hit pitching. The Rebel chunker allowed but three of those up to the ninth inning. Butch Moran homered for Charleston in the fifth.

At Augusta, the Tigers took an early lead and upset the Greenville Spinners, 6 to 2. The game was called in the sixth due to rain. Mack McCullough wasn't helped much by his Spin teammates, who committed three errors.

Adrian Zabala permitted six hits as Jacksonville's Tars brought their losing streak to an end at the expense of Savannah's Indians, 4 to 1. A three-run Tar spree in the first sent Lefty Lawson to the showers and Onnie Robinson finished.

Valdosta To Place 2 New Traffic Lights

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 14.—Anticipating a big increase in traffic problems because of the establishment here of the Army Bombardier Base, city council has authorized the lighting committee, Councilmen W. N. Holcombe and T. A. Baker, to proceed with placing automatic traffic lights at the intersections of Patterson and Valley streets and Ashley and Valley streets.

A survey of the traffic problems were made several weeks ago by a traffic expert brought here by the Georgia Power & Light Company, anticipating the need of more lights. Serious hazards at Valley and Lee streets, near the postoffice, and on North Ashley, where the paved highway from the Bombardier base intersects, are also under consideration.

AFL, Utility Firm To Talk In Washington

Baton Rouge Walkout Invites Attention of Steelman.

By The Associated Press.

Mediation machinery was set in motion at Washington yesterday to settle strikes at the Gulf States Utilities Company, of Baton Rouge, La., and the Sealed Power Corporation, of Muskegon, Mich., and to avert a threatened walkout at the Scullin Steel Company, St. Louis.

Representatives of the utility and the AFL International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, which seeks recognition, accepted an invitation to confer at Washington with Dr. John R. Steelman, director of the Federal Conciliation Service.

Meanwhile state police and sheriff's deputies guarded transformer stations to prevent repetition of power failures which a company official attributed partly to sabotage. Union leaders disclaimed any responsibility for them.

The Defense Mediation Board started an inquiry into the Sealed Power strike, called by the AFL-United Auto Workers in a dispute over wage increases and a union shop. Current wages have not been disclosed. The company makes motor parts for military equipment.

The board also opened hearings in an effort to avert a strike threatened by the CIO Steel Workers Organizing Committee at the Scullin plant, which makes bombs and war materials for Britain. The union seeks the right to represent its members in the plant.

Two Men Injured In Car Accident

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 14.—(AP)—Dr. Ludd M. Spivey, president of Southern College at Lakeland, Fla., and Dr. Dana F. Coman, psychiatrist of Johns Hopkins Hospital at Baltimore, remained under treatment at a hospital here today for injuries received in an automobile accident.

The men were cut and bruised yesterday when their car skidded and overturned on the highway about 18 miles south of here. Hospital attendants indicated they would be released either late today or tomorrow.

Green Says U. S. Labor Will Aid British Workers

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—All possible aid to British labor from American workers was promised tonight by William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, in a trans-Atlantic radio talk with George Gibson, chairman of the British Trades Union Congress.

Inaugurating Aid to British Labor Week, Green, speaking in Washington, declared that "during this coming week labor organizations throughout the United States will climax a successful campaign to raise funds for the relief of British workers victimized by Hitler's blitzkrieg."

Floyd County Boards To Call 70 Draftees

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

ROME, GA., July 14.—Floyd county selective service boards today had received their 16th and largest call, to furnish 55 white men and 15 Negroes for the Army between August 6 and 11.

The record-breaking quota will include some of the newly registered men, as two who became 21 years of age since October 16 and who participated in last week's registration, have already volunteered and will be placed among prospects for the August contingent.

NEW SANDWICH SHOP

—W. C. Bishop, manager, announces a new Speed Sandwich Shop opened at 65 Broad street.

Mr. Bishop, formerly of this city, has been in charge of several stores operated by a large sandwich company in New York City for the past seven years, and comes back to Atlanta with a thorough knowledge of the likes and dislikes of the public.

In explaining the name of his shop, Mr. Bishop said, "It is not enough to give your customer what he wantsb — but more important, when he wants it. Useless loss of time usually results in loss of customer"

A particular sanitary feature of service pointed out by Mr. Bishop is that not once does the human hand touch any ingredients in preparing a sandwich.

CHICAGO, July 14.—(AP)—Rapidly accumulating terminal market wheat supplies, increasing threats of serious congestion at some points, and German claims of successes in Russia were major factors in today's wheat price decline of a cent a bushel or more.

Reports were current that increasing restrictions against wheat shipments to some terminals for storage will be necessary. Although most of the weekend accumulation of grain arriving today was for storage, there was enough hedging pressure to give prices a downward trend and prices at Minneapolis were 1 1-2 to 1 7-8 cents lower, reflecting large receipts of old grain.

Wheat here closed 3-4 to 1 1-8 lower than Saturday, July $1.04 to $1.03 7-8, September $1.05 1-2 to $1.05 5-8; corn 1-8 to 3-8 down, July 73 1-2, September 75 1-2; oats 1-4 to 3-4 off; soybeans 3-8 lower to 1-4 higher; rye 1-8 to 1-2 down and lard 5-10 lower.

Soybeans prices advanced 1 to 1 3-4 cents early in the day, reflecting strength of cotton and cottonseed oil, but all of the gains were wiped out later and losses of as much as a cent substituted at times due to profit-taking.

Corn losses were held to about 1-2 cent, with the market deriving support from the favorable hog feeding ratio and Washington reports that arrangements are being made to send about 2,250,000 bushels of government corn to Great Britain within a few weeks under terms of the lease-lend act.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Rails put on a little rallying excursion of their own in today's stock market but most other departments failed to get aboard.

The list showed considerable reluctance at the start to emulate the drive of last week, best in more than a year. Trends then turned irregular and maintained this course to the close. Revival in the carriers after mid-day proved a moderately steadying influence.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was unchanged at 43.5. Dealings dwindled as prices hesitated and transfers of 563,830 shares were smaller than for any full session in the preceding week. They compared with 806,525 Friday.

Brokers reported lightening of commitments here and there on the theory a "corrective" reaction might be in the offing because of the sharp advance. Business news was a stimulator for individual issues. Conflicting war bulletins and other foreign happenings provided scant speculative inspiration. Price Administrator Henderson's warning that higher living costs were coming served to keep the inflation bee buzzing mildly.

In a ragged Curb a forward slant was exhibited by Humble Oil, American Cyanamid "B," United Specialties and Raytheon Mfg. Under water were Bell Aircraft, Brewster Aero, Electric Bond & Share and Gulf Oil. Volume here was around 106,000 shares against 166,000 in the previous five-hour session.

AVERAGE PRICE.

NEW ORLEANS, July 14.—(AP)—The average price of middling 15-16ths-inch cotton today at 10 designated southern spot markets was 17 points higher at 15.38 cents a pound (new season high); average for the past 30 market days 14.24; middling 7-8ths-inch average 15.16.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—Talk of inflation and of crop damage from rain and boll weevils helped cotton reach new 11-year high levels today with closing gains of from 70 to 95 cents a bale.

The rise was irregular, cut into at times by spot house hedge selling, but for the most part mills, Bombay and speculative interests competed for contracts.

Texas was the source of most of the bad weather and weevil news. General rains over the rest of the belt added to some expressed fears of a crop below expectations.

The gray goods market remained quiet, but some optimism was expressed as a result of Price Administrator Henderson's naming of a textile industry advisory committee.

Traders hoped the committee, which will meet tomorrow, would work for modifications of the price ceilings blamed for recent dull days in Worth Street.

No exports Saturday. Season so far 1,037,183 bales; port receipts 9,296; port stocks 3,279,842.

COTTON ADVANCES MORE THAN DOLLAR A BALE

NEW ORLEANS, July 14.—(AP) Cotton futures advanced more than a dollar a bale here today and reached the 16-cent level for the first time in over 11 years. The buying was induced by reports of too much rain in some sections of the belt and increased boll weevil complaints. Mid-session prices were 17 to 21 points net higher.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Cottonseed oil futures rose 10 to 19 points today in a market uncertain about price ceiling possibilities and disappointed by poor June consumption figures. Sales totaled 72 contracts.

July closed 11.70, September 11.45, October 11.33, December 11.28, January 11.29.

Dry Goods.

NEW YORK, July 14.—Textile markets continued inactive today, but traders were favorably impressed by the setting up of a cotton textile advisory panel by OPAOS, representing all branches of the industry, whose members will advise on problems incident to price control.

A scarcity of worsted material and of machinery to manufacture goods for civilian trade restricted turnover. Rayon goods markets were quiet due to the tight yarn situation, with bid prices at higher levels. Silks were inactive.

Domestic sugar was quiet with gains of 1 to 3 points on a turnover of 3,050 tons.

Scattered raw offerings ranged from 3.47 cents a pound up with over-quota sugar available at 3.35 cents. There was no change in refined.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—A selected group of railroad bonds advanced fractions to more than a point in today's market as the general corporate list moved narrowly with the trend mixed.

The action of stock exchange bond brokers in lowering the commissions on government bonds had the immediate effect of stimulating business in this division considerably. Total sales of governments on the big board were $947,000, par value, an amount high in relation to the meager turnover of late months when a major part of the business was handled over the counter. Prices ended 18-32 of a point higher to 11-32 lower. A similar trend prevailed in the outside market.

Better than average performers among corporates included Bush Terminal 5s at 54 1-2, Laclede Gas 5 1-2s at 78 1-2, Lehigh Valley 4 1-2s at 33 3-4, Central of Georgia 5s at 16 1-8, St. Paul 5s at 12 1-2, International Mercantile Marine 6s at 89 and Southern Railway 4s at 62 1-2.

Lagging for small losses were, among others, American & Foreign Power 5s, Western Maryland 4s, Remington Rand 4 1-2s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s and Pacific Telephone 3 1-4s.

There was little doing among foreign bonds. Belgium 7s lost 3 points but changes elsewhere were small.

Transfers were $9,496,850, par value, compared with $8,778,900 on Friday.

Oil Attrition May Change Nazi Russian 'Victories' to Liabilities

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON.

Whatever the truth of Berlin's undocumented claims of sweeping victories in Russia, there can be no doubt as to the heavy price the Nazis are paying, especially in war materials.

Of course, Russian statements that a million or more Germans have been killed, wounded or captured in the first three weeks of fighting are even less trustworthy than almost identical Nazi claims. Both were issued by propagandists.

Normally, the casualties of attacking forces are double or triple those of the defenders. The circumstances of the Nazi-Soviet conflict, including the undenied entrapment of Red armies in the Minsk-Bialy-Stok sector, tended to reverse that rule. A prodigious Red retreat on a 2,000-mile front has cost more than 250,000 personnel losses, according to Moscow's admission. German casualties may in fact be far below that.

Dipping Into Reserves.

Yet, to press his campaign in Russia Hitler is sanctioning inroads into reserve stocks of oil and probably of food which could virtually immobilize his armies for months to come, even in the event of relatively quick and complete victory in the east.

Unquestionably German armies slogging eastward into Russia are consuming their oil "fat," natural and synthetic, faster today than at any time during the war.

The vast distances they have already extended their front eastward insures that. There can be no halt. Their oil-powered communication lines are being further extended with every foot of advance in Russia. And steady British bombing of German oil depots in France and the Low Countries and of natural and synthetic oil plants in Germany itself is an added drain.

Persistent Russian air attacks on the vital Rumanian oil field center, Ploesti, is admitted in German and Rumanian war bulletins. It is also clear that another prime objective of British air attack in the west is rail and road transportation centers in Germany and occupied countries over which oil and gasoline stocks must move.

Powerful Weapon.

Hitler's armies must keep up with that schedule or bog down in the vast country indefinitely for lack of fuel. That would spell ultimate defeat for him just as certainly as would utter repulse of his armies at the Stalin line or elsewhere in Russia. It would turn his Russian "victories" into liabilities instead of assets if he failed to tap Russian oil sources, still far distant from his most advanced lines.

Oil attrition is the most powerful weapon the Anglo-Russian war associates can use against Hitler at this stage and they are making the most of their opportunity. If all the facts of Nazi oil reserves were known, they well might disclose Hitler's Germany teetering even now on the verge of final disaster.

BRITISH FLEDGLINGS—En route from Camden, S. C., to Maxwell Field, Ala., where they will receive final training as aviators, these eight English youths stopped in Atlanta yesterday for lunch. They are among the group which is in this country to benefit from U. S. training facilities. They will return to England as RAF officers.

Six Germans Removed From Manila Oil Posts

MANILA, July 14.—(AP)—Six Germans holding key positions in the Manila Gas Corporation were removed today in a shake-up which was officially attributed to the international situation and the fact that the corporation is considered strategic industry.

Simultaneously, Commonwealth President Manuel Quezon summoned eight Socialist mayors from Central Luzon and warned them that any act of disloyalty toward the United States or the commonwealth government would be dealt with sternly.

Americans and Filipinos eventually will replace the dismissed Germans, said Clifford P. Billings, vice president of the Islands Gas and Electric Company, of New York, of which the Manila Corporation is a subsidiary.

RAF Student Fliers Prove Camera Shy

Eight young Englishmen in this country for flight training may be boiling over with zeal to get back over and face the guns of Hitler's Messerschmidts, but when rotund William Mason, Constitution staff protographer, pointed his camera at them yesterday they almost tore down George Hanjaras' Alabama street restaurant fleeing from the lens.

Sorry, old chap, and all that, they apologized, but they had strict orders to avoid the press like they would avoid a Nazi spy, while they traveled from Camden, S. C., where they took their preliminary training, to Maxwell Field, Ala., where they will get a final flying polish.

Finally Talk.

However, by assiduous questioning of Proprietor George Hanjaras, Scotty Williamson, once of Glasgow, now a Constitution printer, and an unidentified man with egg on his vest who also talked with the boys, the following may be revealed.

The boys are all just youngsters. They are Scotch, Irish, Welsh and pure English, and they come from all over the island. Most of them were "clarks," though some were school teachers, and what they call "industrialists," which seems to mean foremen or supervisors in machine shops.

Most of them had bitter personal experience of German bombing before they came over here, and one of them, red-headed John Taitt, lay six weeks in a hospital with a bomb wound in his leg. His leg has healed, but he is still sore as a boil about it, and he wants to be a bomber pilot so he can give back a little of what he got. The rest seem to lean toward fighter ships.

Taitt's wrath has been fanned by recent news from home, too. His brother got married and took his bride to a nice new home and he had hardly lifted her across the threshold before the Nazis came over and blew the place to bits.

They like this country. They think our planes are jolly good planes and our girls are jolly nice young ladies—for some reason they don't use the word "girls," according to Scotty—and they believe the watermelon, and the tree-ripened peach are the noblest handiworks of the Creator. They like corn on the cob, too, but they can't understand our methods of making salads, and they miss their fish and chips, which is fish and French fries.

They think our currency is marvelously simple and logical in its divisions, far more so than their own clutter of ha-pennys, tupennys, farthings and what-not.

They are anxious to get back to England, but they mean no reflection on this country when they say so.

"We want to get back and finish up the job," one of them told the man with the egg on his vest, "so we can come back over here again when we have plenty of time to see people and have a bit of fun."

Withdrawal of British Army in Iceland Asked

WASHINGTON, July 14.—(AP)—Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan, said today that British forces in Iceland should withdraw.

"If we sent our troops there as a defense measure," he added, "then there is no need for the British to remain. Joint occupation is a direct invitation to our involvement in a shooting war."

Previously other senators had called for the withdrawal of the British, contending that the latter's presence on the island might give Germany an excuse for attack.

Nine Aircraft, Five Ships Said Hit by RAF

Unremitting Attacks Directed at Coast, Shipping Lanes.

LONDON, July 14.—(AP)—The RAF went hunting today for German shipping and German planes, found both and, to tabulate the British reports, scored hits on five ships totaling 22,500 tons and shot down nine aircraft.

A tenth German plane, the second bomber of the day, was credited to antiaircraft defenses along the Scottish east coast. The other bomber was destroyed by fighters off the coast of Wales, said the official report.

The RAF made morning raids on the German-held French ports of Cherbourg and Le Havre, rail yards at Hazebrouck, near St. Omer, and in the afternoon big Blenheims of the bomber command, searching for North Sea shipping, attacked a small convoy off the Dutch Frisian Islands, the air ministry said.

Three direct hits were scored on one vessel of 6,000 tons, another of 3,000 tons was hit astern and an escort vessel of 1,500 tons was struck aft and amidship, the communique said. A fighter which tried to break up the attack was shot down into the sea, it was said, and all the Blenheims came home unharmed.

The morning attack on Cherbourg was costly, for the British acknowledged loss of two bombers and four fighters. However, seven German fighters were claimed there and at Le Havre.

A 6,000-ton ship was fired at Cherbourg, the RAF said, and bombs also hit a railway station south of the docks, locomotive sheds and a factory. Another 6,000-ton vessel was hit at Le Havre and afterward was seen half submerged.

These attacks were the daylight follow-up of a night of raiding through adverse weather on objectives along the channel coast and in northwestern Germany. Bremen, Vegesack, which is near Bremen; Amsterdam, Rotterdam and Ostend were the principal objectives.

German raiders also struck across the channel by daylight. Three soldiers were reported wounded when an attacking plane machinegunned a train in southern England.

Ousted Axis Consuls Slated To Sail Today

Wiedemann, Borchers Are Flying to New York.

NEW YORK, July 14.—(AP)—More than 450 ousted German and Italian consuls, their families, and consular employes converged here today to sail on the naval transport West Point, formerly the liner America, but now a drab-colored ship equipped mainly with bunks and devoid of the comforts and furnishings usually found on ships used by governmental officials.

The liner will sail for Lisbon tomorrow afternoon.

Meanwhile, balked in efforts to sail across the Pacific, 16 ousted German consular officials in San Francisca booked passage on three United Airlines planes leaving tonight for New York, where they will cross the Atlantic on the West Point.

The Germans said that should they fail to reach New York in time, the State Department has assured them the liner would be held for them.

The ousted Nazi include Captain Fritz Wiedemann, the former San Francisco consul general who once was commanding officer to Adolf Hitler, and Dr. Hans Borchers, consul general at New York city.

Listed among the liner's passengers are Dr. Manfred Zapp and Guenther Tonn, German newspapermen who have been held at Ellis Island on charges of neglecting to register as foreign agents. Reliable informants said that the United States government had ordered the release of the men in exchange for the release of Americans held in Axis-controlled countries.

Dr. Kurt Rieth, former German ambassador to Austria who had been held at Ellis Island on charges of violating the immigration laws, was released tonight by order of the State Department in order to permit his departure on the West Point.

(The State Department announced last Friday that 21 American ambulance drivers, survivors of the liner Zamzam, had been released from custody in occupied France and would return on the West Point, along with 350 American consular officials expelled from Germany, Italy and Axis-dominated countries.)

Lowndes Agent To Get Car of Purebred Bulls

VALDOSTA, Ga., July 14.—County Agent R. E. Miller is completing plans to bring a carload of white-face Hereford and Angus purebred bulls into Lowndes county the later part of this month.

This move is to meet a growing demand among landowners and farmers for a better breed of cattle, and it is understood that ample financial assistance will be available to reliable farmers who want to improve their cattle.

Syrian War Formally Ends In Pact Signing

14,000 Vichy Troops Preparing To Cross Turkish Border.

CAIRO, Egypt, July 14.—(AP)—British and French officials today formally signed the armistice ending the five-week-old Middle East war in which Frenchmen fought Frenchmen and former ally battled former ally, General Sir Claude Auchinleck, British commander in the Middle East, announced here.

Negotiations leading to the final signature were carried on at Acre by General Sir Henry Maitland Wilson, commander of British forces in Palestine and Trans-Jordan, and General Henry Dentz, the French commander in Syria. The armistice had been initialed there Saturday.

The French defeat in the Levant was acknowledged at Vichy by Chief of State Marshal Petain in notes to the civilians and soldiers of Syria. In both he expressed gratitude at the conduct of the campaign and asserted France would remain closely attached to her Syrian and Lebanon mandates.

To the soldiers he said: "After a month of bitter but unequal combat we have been forced to lay down our arms."

To the civilians: "As a result of unjustifiable aggression and as a victim of an unequal fight, France is going to suffer an eclipse in the Levant as sad for her as for you."

Meanwhile informed sources in Alexandretta, Turkey, said 40,000 Vichy French soldiers will cross the border from Syria into Turkey within 48 hours, thus surrendering one of France's richest World War prizes.

In addition to the day camps and special summer activities, Camp Fire Girls are busy taking photographs to enter in their photography contest which closes on August 2. The pictures are to illustrate some thought in the first stanza of "America, the Beautiful." All contestants should have their pictures in the Camp Fire office by August 2 and the winners will be announced at the council fire. Deviled Tomatoes Flatter Cold Meats

By Sally Saver.

The ideal summer meal is one that can be fixed quickly and simply and still look as if it had been given much time and attention. It requires a main dish which is substantial and attractive, yet easy to prepare.

Such a dish for luncheon or supper is a plate starring sliced cold meats and deviled tomatoes. Deviling a tomato may sound like hot work, but actually it takes only a few moments' time in the kitchen.

Deviled Tomatoes.

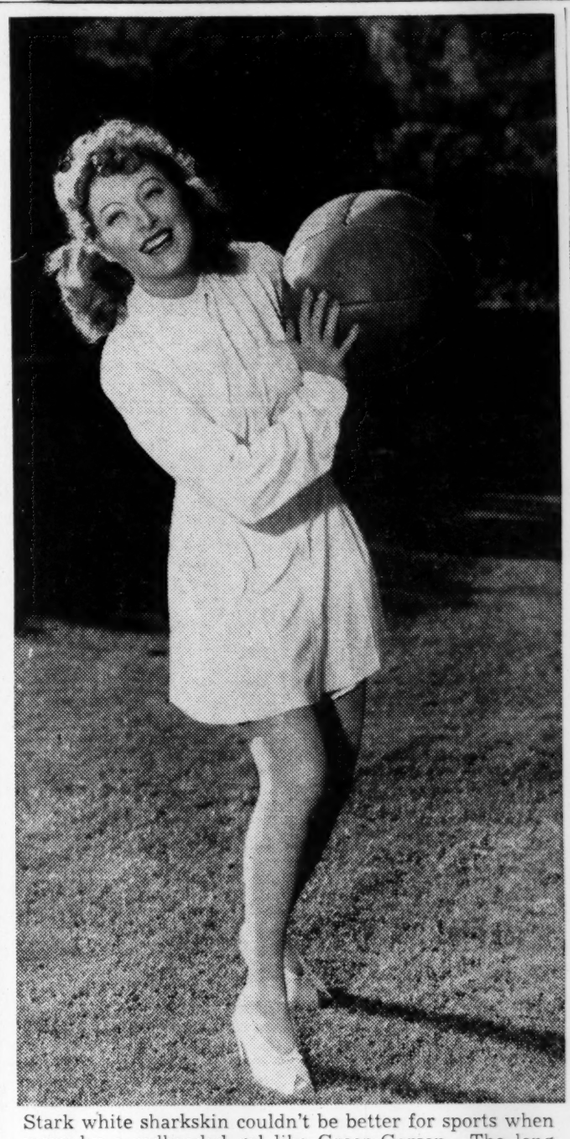

6 tomatoes
1 egg
1 tablespoon water
4 cups corn flakes
2 tablespoons butter

Wash tomatoes, remove stems, and cut into one-half-inch slices. Beat egg slightly and add water. Roll corn flakes into fine crumbs. Dip tomato slices in egg mixture, then in corn flake crumbs, and brown in frying pan in which two tablespoons of butter have been melted. Sprinkle with salt and pepper. Remove from pan.

Sauce.

4 tablespoons butter
4 tablespoons flour
2 cups milk
1 teaspoon salt
Dash of cayenne
2 teaspoons sugar
2 teaspoons dry mustard
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce

Melt butter, add flour and blend well. Add milk, stirring constantly Cook until thickened. Combine dry seasonings, and add to cream sauce mixture. Add Worcestershire sauce. Serve sauce in side dish, or poured over tomatoes on platter.

Only the Very Active Earn Right To Desserts

By Dr. William Brady.

For several years now (writes T. H.) my boss has been feeding me strictly according to your teachings. I have endured it nobly, in the interest of peace and amity, but now what have you gone and done? My boss is the best pie baker in this neck of the woods. Her cherry pies would break down the morale of even Ol' Doc Brady, who hasn't any use at all for such superfluous carbohydrates. Well, you printed that blast against the delectable carbonydrates about the middle of June and the boss cut it out and framed it neatly and hands it to me when I utter moans of anguish over the sinister scarcity of cherry pie in this once happy home, right in the season, too. Have you no compassion at all? Or are you perhaps allergic to pie in any way, shape or manner? (T. H.)

In that very article I said quite frankly that "it pains me more than it does you to mention that most of us take our daily excess of the highly nutritious carbonydrates after we have been filled to repletion by a square meal. We call the overdose dessert."

Then, lest critics as carping as T. H. pretends to accuse me of just such bias, I took pains to remind readers that "with increased activity, work, play, exercise, the proportion of carbohydrates material required to maintain normal weight and to yield the energy used in such activity increases. . . and this is the reason why dessert is all right for those who play or work hard. They need more carbohydrate."

These delectable carbohydrates are not only the easiest food to eat even when you are not particularly hungry but, darn it, they pack a heavy charge of calories. Dessert is the course that builds slacked flesh in America.

When it comes to appreciation of sour cherry pie, hot mince, apple pie such as mother used to make, lemon pie or almost any other variety custard and berry pie, I defer to no trencherman. Nevertheless we must remember breads, cakes and pastry of every description are chock-full of calories and only one who earns 'em, by active work or play, can consume them over and above an ordinary meal.

This I can state from personal experience as well as from thousands of reports sent in by readers: the least painful part of a reducing regimen is pushing away from the table just before the dessert hoves in sight. After all, when one has eaten a square meal is overeating to crowd in an additionaly 300 or 400 calories just because it is customary in the country to do so. Average piece of pie yields 300 calories. Average chocolate ice cream soda yields 450 calories: Average serving of rice or tapioca pudding yields 225 calories. For the plethoric overweight, if something in the way of dessert must be taken, it had better be fresh fruit in season, without sugar or cream. Once more let me repeat that for the active young person, child or adult, dessert is all right—one who works, plays or exercises enough every day needs plenty of carbohydrate as muscle fuel or energy.

To Hold Husband, Control Suspicion

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I have been married for 10 years. I have two children, one nine and the other four years old. I seem to have some difficulty keeping my husband at home with me. He is inclined to run around, but he takes it only by spells. I am not sure what causes him to be this way, for I try to make home as pleasant as possible for him. I also work and help to make a living, but he does not seem to appreciate anything I do for him. He seems to be affectionate enough when he is home, but I get awfully lonesome staying at home so much just with the children. They often mention their father's running around. What would you suggest I do to stop him? I do not know where he goes or why. If he goes with women, I have never seen him with one and I am afraid to try to find out where he goes because it would break my heart if I should find out that he does. Just what can I do?

PUZZLED WIFE.

I think you are very wise and are showing good judgment not to try to investigate your husband's activities. I think that if you keep up this attitude you will be able to learn a great deal. If I were you, I would not worry too much about the way he is acting, for as long as you have nothing definite to base your suspicions upon, you may be worrying for nothing.

You say you do everything you can to make home pleasant for him. Perhaps the fault is with yourself. Why not try to be a little different? Assume a new mood. Develop a new personality. Change your way of living. Why not invite some friends in some night and try to center the interest in the home and arrange the affairs so that your husband can be present too? I would advise you not to become too restless and too suspicious, and above all do not start a personal investigation of his activities. And do not leave him.

A DIVIDED LOVE IS UNSATISFACTORY

Dear Dixie:

I have been going with this boy for almost eight months and have discovered that I love him very much. We have discussed marriage and planned for our future happiness. The problem which confronts me now is that he tells me he loves his cousin and she loves him. They would marry if their parents would consent, but they are afraid to ask. Even though he says he loves me, I feel that I come second. I do not believe that I could be happy very long, married to someone and knowing that he loves someone else. She will be visiting us and I do not believe I could stand it, if we were married. If I were married to him, sooner or later this problem would give us trouble. What do you think?

M. V. G.

I certainly would not marry this boy as long as he freely admits that he loves his cousin. It does not stand to reason that you are the second love, for perhaps the cousin is, but I think it a very strange man who will admit loving both of you. His love is a divided love and I do not think he would make a very good husband for either of you until he has made up his mind. As for the cousing coming to visit you, I think that is a very good idea. Perhaps he will be able to make up his mind one way or the other—that is, if you are going to stand by and let him do that. I do not believe you would be happy married to him, for I agree with you that the affair will give you trouble later on. Very few girls would allow a man to make love to them and discuss marriage one minute and then in the next minute talk about loving another girl. He does not seem to be very good husband material.

Today's Charm Tip

Restrain that common impulse, wives, to air your grievances about your man. It's not fair to make a third person squirm with discomfort when he or she is appointed an involuntary judge.

MY DAY: A Justice Enjoys A Student Program

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

EASTPORT, Maine, Sunday.—These few days certainly have been full of interest. On Friday morning Mrs. Albert Lasker arrived. I tried to meet her myself in Ellsworth, Maine, only to find that the tide was so low I could not get across the ferry in time. So a car went for her from Lubec and brought Mr. and Mrs. James Wechsler also. Mr. Wechsler is lecturing on labor in defense and the young people are finding him very interesting.

Incidentally, several photographers have appeared on the scene. On Saturday they tried to catch Justice Frankfurter and Dr. Alfred Cohn as they came across on the ferry. They were going to have one photograph at least taken with me on the beach. But we were not caught by the photographers, for Dr. and Mrs. David Levy arrived first and I drove down to the village with them, and returned to find Dr. Cohn and Justice Frankfurter had been ferried over, landed and started on the road to the house.

Dr. Cohn and Justice Frankfurter are both staying in the house with the students. Justice Frankfurter has already had a number of interesting talks, though his lecture is not being given until Monday. He has done an interesting thing in posing two questions to the students and he feels that, from the answers, he will be able to discover what they know about the law and how he must arrange his subject.

We were half through supper when Mr. and Mrs. Archibald MacLeisch appeared at our door. They had left home at 6 a. m. and driven 440 miles. They were to stay down in the village, but they washed up and came down to supper and then went over to the students' cottage for the evening's entertainment. The students put on excellent songs and skits and, in spite of their weariness, I noticed that Mr. and Mrs. MacLeisch enjoyed themselves.

Justice Frankfurter kept saying, "This is better than the Gridiron." I am afraid our friends of the Gridiron would feel a trifle insulted, and yet the scripts these young people wrote were clever and witty and made many allusions to local happenings that evoked great laughter from all the young people.

I often wonder how much of a gap there really is between these young people from colleges, the cream of their various crops, and the boys working in Quoddy. It seems to me that the same qualities of leadership which are found in one group are found in the other.

On Friday night in Quoddy, I met a Mrs. Fountain, who has won the title of "Mother" through her kindness to all the boys on the project. The girls in various neighbors' houses are always willing to help her out, so she manages to keep the cookie jar filled for the boys and to make little extra things for them to eat every now and then, which makes a homesick boy at once feel less keenly the need of his home environment. The boys are devoted to her and call her "Mom."

All Hollywood Is Overpaid, Declares Rosalind Russell

By Sheilah Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, July 14.—Rosalind Russell is to the female portion of the film-acting fraternity what Lew Ayres is to the male—she has a mind, uses it, but is interested more vitally in what is going on today than Mr. Ayres, who prefers the past.

I had lunch with Rosalind a few days ago. And still feel stimulated by the contact. "We are all overpaid in Hollywood," said Roz, with the hors d'oeuvre. By the time we arrived at the cheese, she was interviewing me, asking the whys and wherefores of newspaper work. Perhaps that's why people like her so much. She relentlessly brings the conversation to you, and I've yet to meet the person who resented that.

To get back to Miss Russell, she could have signed a fat five-year contract with Metro. They said she could name her own price. "But that's just it," Roz told me, "we all get too much money. Big salaries make people too satisfied. And this applies to directors and writers as well as actors. Give me a director who gets $750 a week (small for Hollywood), and I'd sooner do a picture with him than one receiving $5,000 a week.

"The well-paid people don't try any more. With a fortune in the bank, they haven't the necessary incentive to make good. A new director has enthusiasm. He'll try something different. The established boys are content to repeat and repeat themselves. So when I was offered another contract at Metro, I said, 'No—I don't want to join the old battle-axe brigade'—people who get paid a fortune and have to be given pictures because they are under contract, but who are through.

"I want to try my luck in a bigger field," continued the star. I want to pick my stories and the people who will write and direct them. I'll make three pictures a year (this is one more than originally planned). And if I get one smash success in three, I'll be satisfied. I've been reading scripts until I can't see any more, but I've found a good one. No, I won't tell you what it is. I'm superstitious about talking until it's quite settled."

Miss Russell has a good business head. She has a phobia against debts and pays cash for everything bought. "My income tax is deducted at source," she said. "And I have put away all my 1941 income tax to this date. It's the only way, or you begin to think you have money when you haven't."

Another of Miss Russell's hates is being told what to do and how to do it. When well-meaning busybodies told her that her friendship for Freddie Brisson should be abandoned because he is not wealthy and has not an important position in Hollywood, she merely saw Brisson more often. It won't be surprising if they get married one of these days.

The only way to describe the dresses she prefers to wear on the screen and in private life is "alluring," although she looks her best when strictly tailored. The Russell figure is ideal for slacks and shorts . . . Her hats are definitely crazy. She'll put a couple of carrots on her dark locks and expect you to say, "Is that a hat?" Her fingernails are long. Her shoes spectacular. Her favorite reading is modern, but on the advanced, intellectual side.

Rosalind lives in a brick English cottage home in Beverly Hills, tastefully furnished with English antiques. She rarely stirs from the house without her tiny portable radio. She likes to be in the sun, although she gets red, not brown. She loves argument and debate. Her tennis, she describes as "a poor game." Her swimming is in the competition class. "I started when I was 12," she said, "and almost won my first diving competition. But just as I sprang, the strap of my suit broke, and I went through 30 feet of air clutching the strap!"

She was born in Waterbury, Conn. She is in her early thirties.

Every studio is re-releasing old successful pictures to tide them over a couple of months before the new product is sold, according to the consent decree, in blocks of five. (They are saving the new good ones for that time). Here are some oldies you can see again: Frank Buck's "Bring 'Em Back Alive," "Wild Cargo," "Bringing Up Baby" (Hepburn and Grant), "Navy, Blue and Gold," "One in a Million" (the first for Sonja Henie), "Ruggles of Red Gap," "Prisoner of Zenda" and "Devil Dogs of the Air" (co-starring Jimmy Cagney and Pat O'Brien). I hope the new pictures are as good.

Low Calorie Diet Can Improve Health

By Ida Jean Kain.

The news about reducing is that the low calorie diet can be the best in the world—if the menus are planned according to the new dietary yardstick. Your diet can be so perfectly balanced that you actually improve your health as you take off two or even three pounds a week. Isn't that good news?

You can cut down to 800 or 1,000 calories a day and be on a diet that measures up to the recommended nutrition allowances and is abundant in every respect except in calories. For the calorie deficit you draw on stored fat. But all the repair and regulating materials can be included.

What does this mean to those of you who are trying to reduce? It means that you will not get tired, weak and discouraged as you have other times when you tried dieting. You can have optimal amounts of the morale vitamins B1 and B2, vitamin A which keeps up your resistance, vitamin C which increases your feeling of well being, the essential minerals, and the protein needed for wear and tear.

It means that even though you are from 50 to 100 pounds overweight, you can get rid of the load and be a happy, healthy person while doing it. You won't really appreciate this until you try balancing your menus according to the new yardstick.

I am not going to buttonhole you with too much scientific data. You are interested in the results—and you'll get them! But I do want you to know something about the scientific principle which is being applied to the overweight's reducing diet. An understanding of how it works will help you to stick.

Numerous experiments have shown that by increasing a single dietary factor in an apparently adequate diet, the sense of well being may be markedly enhanced. For this reason, the adequate diet is no longer good enough for the reducer. After all, reducing is something of a strain. It entails turning the excess pounds back into energy. So it is important that the reducer's vitality be kept at a high level—and that calls for an abundance of the protective elements. To assure optimal amounts of these elements, the following magic list of foods should form the basis of your daily diet:

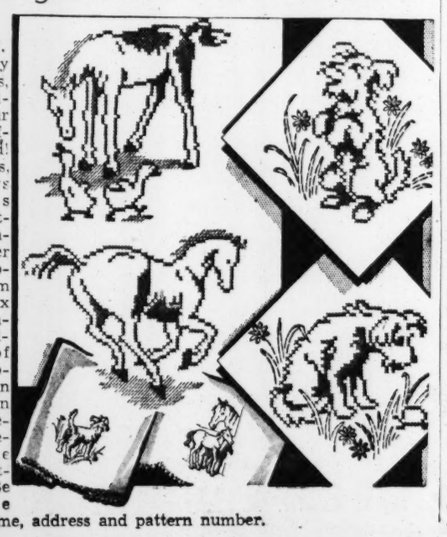

Basic Balanced Menu.

Protective Foods—Orange juice or grapefruit, amount, 1-2 glass, 3 1-2 oz., calories, 55; egg, 1 boiled or poached, calories, 75; whole wheat bread or vitamin B1 bread, amount, 3 thin slices, calories, 150; butter, amount 2 pats, each 1-4-inch thick, calories, 100; lean meat, fish or fowl, amount 6-oz., calories, 300; (trim off every particle of fat and boil, broil or bake); cooked vegetables, amount 2—1 a green leafy, calories, 100; green vegetable salad of watercress, escarole or some other green, calories, 25; a second fruit, calories, 50; skim milk or buttermilk, amount 2 glasses—or 1 glass and serving of cheese, 1-oz., calories, 160; total calories, 1,015.

Note: To bring that menu up to optimal level in vitamin B1, supplement daily diet with one milligram of thiamin chloride, which furnishes 333 international units of this vitamin.

All your protective foods are included and calories cut to the minimum in the new "Ten-Day Diet to Lose Five Pounds." Send large stamped return envelope for this leaflet to Ida Jean Kain, The Constitution, Atlanta, Ga.

MR. AND MRS G. ARTHUR HOWELL.

By SALLY FORTH.

● ● ● FROM THAT POPULAR western resort, Del Monte, Cal., comes the news that the most attractive young honeymoon couple at Hotel Del Monte is Mr. and Mrs. G. Arthur Howell, of Atlanta. Which is not at all surprising, of course, to Atlantans. Mrs. Howell, as you know, was before her marriage in June lovely Caroline Sherman, of Sherrillbrook, New Hartford, N. Y., and Atlanta society can hardly wait until her return from her wedding journey. She and Arthur spent a few days here immediately after their marriage in order for the latter to take part in the marriage of Mary Ann Campbell to Wharton Mitchell, and the glimpse of the charming bride was fairly tantalizing.

"This gay pair was in the thick of all the activity that went on at Del Monte during the recent Fourth of July weekend," writes Sally's scout, "and are making a great many new friends here. Their favorite spot is the Roman Plunge, where they swim daily, and where they laze around in the sun afterwards to acquire what is rapidly becoming one of the more notable suntans at this resort. The Bali Room comes next, because they love to dance together, and because they like the Hotel Del Monte orchestra and the gay and sophisticated atmosphere of this spot."

Another Atlanta couple joined the ranks of eastern vacationers at Del Monte last week. No sooner did Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Heinz arrive than they were whisked up the Carmel valley for a barbecue picnic. The spot is Sleepy Hollow, on the 4,000-acre Del Monte dude ranch that adjoins the government 400,000-acre reserve. Del Monte maintains the dude ranch for its guests, who frequently feel in the mood for informal outdoor living, with its fishing, hunting and pack trips.

● ● ● WITH ATLANTA women answering the call for emergency service in connection with the national defense, the wonderful work which women of Fulton county accomplished during the last war is recalled with interest. That prominent and beloved Atlantan, Mrs. Charles J. Haden, served as chairman for the Atlanta-Fulton county unit, and offices were established at the federal courtrooms through the courtesy of the late Judge Don Pardee and the late Judge W. T. Newman, both judges of the United States court.

The work in the office was voluntary, and one of the most important phases was the daily service of 20 women who transcribed the records of 12,000 children who were weighed and measured. This work was undertaken in a vigorous campaign and it became so important to the welfare of the city and county that it was continued after the war. Today that same work, with additional features, is carried on under the name of the Child Welfare Association.

According to Mrs. Haden, it was estimated at the time that 195 churches in Atlanta and Fulton county did some form of organized war work. All the large churches in the city sponsored the "Y" huts at Camp Gordon and Fort McPherson; cared for wards at Fort McPherson and Camp Gordon; carried on Red Cross sewing days, canteen service, and the entertainment of soldiers in homes and churches.

Patriotic organizations did their bit in the work, and 16 women composed the speakers' bureau, served faithfully in the war savings stamp campaign, and were on call when needed in the Liberty Loan and war drives. Many speakers were sent here from Washington in the interest of the war work, prominent among them being ex-President William H. Taft, Dr. Anna Shaw, Mrs. Antoinette Funk, Dr. Alexander Johnson, the Earl of Dunmore, the famous "Blue Devils of France," and many others.

Lose a Pound a Day

If you've ever followed a strict diet, you know how difficult it is to get it properly in restaurants. Not so here with the Nine-Day Wonder diet as published in Harper's Bazaar. Our cooks understand the preparation and quantities, and our waitresses are familiar with the diet. We haven't gone into the "medical business" and so offer no advice one way or another as to the diet, but if you are following it, you can get it here prepared exactly as it should be; just tell the waitress what day you started—she knows what should follow. One of our customers lost six pounds in five days, another lost ten pounds in nine days—the diet is supposed to take off nine pounds in nine days, and you still have plenty to eat daily!

"I HAVE SOMETHING FOR YOU"

Tracy's Illness Proves Serious, Doctor Diagnoses It as Diabetes

By Margaret Gorman Nichols.

Author of "I'll Wait for You" and "Kiss After Midnight."

SYNOPSIS.

Kit Marshall leaves her Aunt Chris in Washington, D. C., to avoid her friends when she learns her father, now dead, went to prison as an embezzler. After three jobless months in New York she nervously accepts the position of social secretary to Tracy Field, young heiress, who is constantly claiming the headlines. She is startled when the Field chauffeur calls for her; in the back seat is a young man. He says he is Mike Saunders, newspaperman, that he has known Tracy Field for five years and that he is going to her Connecticut place for a swim. Kit likes him at once. He joins Tracy and watches her cousin Tony Merryman and Kirk Griswold, a summer neighbor, play tennis, joshing her about Kirk's being her "latest." Tony and his pretty wife Anita are Tracy's permanent guests and she is adept at wheedling checks out of Tracy. Kit meets Kirk on a train going to New York and dines with him, though she remembers Tracy is expecting him. When she returns Tracy says Kirk was kind to her only through sympathy. Kit knows she is jealous and says she must leave, but Tracy asks her to forget what has been said. Her aunt writes that she is coming to New York the next weekend, and, although Kit knows now that she loves Kirk, her aunt is her excuse when he proposes that they plan something together. While Kit is busy with Tracy's plans for a party of a hundred people Mike announces Kit is his party "date" and that he is sending her orchids. After Kit has danced with Mike at the party Kirk suggests to her a walk in the garden.

INSTALLMENT XIII.

"A thorough examination is necessary. You've been with her lately. How has she been?"

"Tired. Terribly tired. She told me one day she felt as if she could go to sleep standing up."

"How is her appetite?"

"Fine. I see her usually when she's having breakfast and she has a larger one than I do. But she's very thin."

He nodded. Though he looked worried, to make the time go faster he said, "Tracy's last secretary was a thin, bespectacled spinster who looked as if she'd relish managing other people's lives."

"I find it difficult enough to manage my own." She glanced back, seeing the headlights following them. Kirk and Mike. . . .

At last they reached the hospital where experienced hands lifted Tracy from the car and took her inside. Kit followed, leaving the weeping Yvette in the waiting room.

In the corridor outside Tracy's room Mike and Kirk walked up and down. Soon Kit joined them when she was told she could no longer remain in the room.

"Queer," Mike said as the three of them walked to the waiting room where Yvette sat, quietly weeping.

"We were talking out in the garden," Kirk said. "All at once she slipped quietly to the grass. Seemingly she had been perfectly well. Maybe she'd been doing too much. Too much riding and tennis. . . ."

Yvette looked up. "Non! Non!"

Kirk spoke to the maid in French. Then he said, "Yvette says Tracy hasn't been well and wouldn't go to a doctor. She says Tracy has been thirsty all the time."

Kit said, "I wonder how long we'll have to wait before we know. I hate not knowing."

"I hate hospitals," Mike said. "They give me the creeps. I hate the smell of them."

Kirk said, "You'd better sit down, Kit. We may have a long wait."

He spoke gently and not as if they had been close to quarreling.

Mike felt jittery. He had a headache and he didn't like the looks of things. It was because you did not associate Tracy Field with illness and hospitals, he told himself. When you thought of the arrogant Tracy you thought of social doings and people springing to attention at her beck and call. You thought of the nervous Tracy in motion, waving her hands, shrugging her shoulders, walking with her quick grace, speaking in her lovely voice. But Tracy, still and helpless, while her house was filled with people and music—it was unreal.

But it had been smart of Kit to suggest that the party go on, Mike's thoughts ran on. Tracy, who was always praised for her hospitality, would praise Kit for her quick thinking. Because when Tracy came out of this, everyone would praise her for being so gallant.

Kit rested her head on the back of the chair and closed her eyes, opening them each time she heard foosteps. But the energetic figures in white always passed and did not come in. She glanced at Kirk, standing beside the chintz-draped windows, his hands in the pockets of his dinner jacket, his face stern again. That he had acted quickly made her think of what Aunt Chris once said: "Kit, no man is worth his salt unless he's a good person to have around in time of trouble and doesn't lose his head." While Tony had been helpless, Anita fluttery and excited, and Mike too intoxicated to think clearly, Kirk had gone to find a doctor among guests strange to him and it had been Kirk who carried Tracy down the narrow back stairs.

Mike was here because he had been Tracy's friend for a long time and because tonight he was her secretary's escort. And Kirk was here because—because he loved Tracy? Was Kirk stern and concerned because he cared deeply for Tracy if she knew that, it would simplify everything, Kit thought. Feelings were true. It was speech that was confusing. The evening that she and Kirk had had alone together in New York, their feelings had been true. Nothing had been true since. Since then there had been a clash of personalities—Tracy's, Kirk's, Mike's, hers. . . .

And if Kirk loved Tracy, then she, Kit, would never have to tell him that she was the daughter of a man who had gone to prison. She could tell Mike. Mike would say, "So what?" She thought, "I see Mike more clearly than I see Kirk because with Kirk my emotions get in the way and confuse me. I feel more than I think and see. Maybe that's why they say love is blind. . . ."

Kit did not know how long they waited. But she knew that she was achingly tired when Dr. Mitchell joined them, and then she was tired no longer. Every nerve in her seemed to spring awake.

"Has anyone a cigaret?" Dr. Mitchell asked.

Kirk gave him one and after he had lighted it, he said, looking from one to the other. "I'm sorry. It's bad news, I'm afraid. Frankly, I was shocked—" he looked at Mike because he knew that the usually unkempt young newspaperman had known Tracy a long time, "Tracy has diabetes. She was in a coma. She . . . well, it's incurable, you know. She's conscious now. Insulin fixed her up. But she . . . I don't advise your seeing her tonight. You may see her tomorrow."

Tracy had diabetes. . . . Kit had heard of the disease though she had never known anyone who had it. Vaguely she knew that people so afflicted had to weigh their food and take insulin. But Tracy—Tracy Field! Kit's tired nerves seemed to stretch and then relax, leaving her weak and shaking.

Mike said, "Doesn't seem that could be Tracy—Tracy with something like that!"

Kirk still looked stern and concerned. "But it's possible to live a perfectly normal life with it, isn't it, doctor?"

Young Dr. Mitchell nodded. "Yes, quite. But there are strict rules, of course, about the diet and the treatment. I know that you are Tracy's friends. A young woman of her type is going to find this abrupt change in her life rather a mean dose, I'm afraid. It puts a terrific curb on your freedom during the time of adjustment. Your living or dying is up to you. If you fail to co-operate, you die. If you co-operate, you can live to a ripe old age."

He shook his head. "I know this is shocking news. I hated to come and tell you. But there's nothing you can do tonight. She's having the best of care. She'll be here, I should say offhand, about three weeks or so. She'll want—need company."

Mike thought, "Even here she'll have to have an audience. But even when I've disliked her most, I never wished anything like this on her. And this is the first time since I've known her that I've ever felt sorry for her. . . ."

Kirk said, "Thank you, doctor."

Yvette began to weep again and to mutter in her native French. Presently she arose and hurried to the door. Kirk called to her in French and she answered, gesticulating as she brought forth a rush of excited words.

When she had left, he said, "She's going to her sister tonight. She's quitting. She thinks Tracy has a contagious disease."

Mike said, "Let's go somewhere and have a very big cup of very black coffee. There's no reason for my going back to the country tonight. You don't mind, Kit?"

They found the patient, anxious Cecil, and Kirk told him that Miss Field would be in the hospital about three weeks.

They drove to a small restaurant, Mike and Kit together, Kirk in the car with Cecil. And they looked tired and sober, the three of them, sitting at a white-clothed table.

Mike said, "One hour you're a hostess, rich and good-looking and admired—there isn't anything you can't have. The next you're flat on your back and alone, and living on borrowed time. Life. . . . The Fates have a. . . ."

Kit said, "Please don't talk like that."

Kirk said, "You've known her a long time, Mike. How will she take it?"

"She won't take it in the right way. Since she was 21, she's made her own rules. You see, there were too many rules when she was a kid. Her parents thought they were being smart in keeping other kids away from her and teaching her how to manage her fortune. She's broken all the rules they taught her except about looking after her money." He paused, looking down at the tablecloth. "You can both start thinking of the kind of flowers you want to send her when the show is over."

Kit said, "She can fight. . . ."

"You would. But all her fighting will be against the rules, the curbing of her freedom."

"You're morbid, Mike," Kirk said. "There isn't anyone whose freedom isn't curbed in some way. We work when we're tired. We go out of our way to do favors for our friends. No man is wholly free. We all live by certain rules dictated by our individual lives."

Your Horoscope for Today

By ALICE DENTON JENNINGS, Noted Atlanta Chirologist.

What today means to you if you were born between:

March 21 and April 19 (ARIES)—The period previous to 6:10 p. m. does not especially favor new plans or projects. The most favorable influence of the day culminates between 6:10 p. m. and 11:44 p. m., making this a favorable period for matters of an unusual nature, progressive affairs and where the good of the public is concerned.

April 20 and May 20 (TAURUS)—Before 11:23 a. m. does not favor speculative ideas. Between 12:23 p. m. and 3:52 p. m. favors interests pertaining to land. After 3:52 p. m. favors sticking to routine matters.

May 21 and June 20 (GEMINI)—After 1 p. m. favors active work of all sorts, ideas that require energy and enthusiasm, literary and publishing matters. The best vibrations of the day operate between 1 p. m. and 6 p. m.

June 21 and July 22 (CANCER)—Harmonious vibrations operate before 1:40 p. m. for pleasant and profitable contacts in finances, domestic affairs and business. The remainder of the day and evening favors stiking to routine.

July 23 and August 22 (LEO)—Previous to 1:19 p. m. favors appointments, meetings, financial affairs, public matters. After 1:19 p. m. favors attending to old duties or matters that require patience or perseverance. The evening hours favor romantic interests.

August 23 and September 22 (VIRGO)—The morning hours and until 12:24 p. m. are the best hours of the day. An excellent period for legal affairs, educational matters and general business. Between 12:24 p. m. and 9:06 p. m., verbal agreements are not favored, and if it is impossible to avoid consultations and entering into contracts, be sure both sides understand each other thoroughly.

September 23 and October 22 (LIBRA)—Previous to 3:48 p. m. is the better portion of the day, when you should make every effort to get conditions set in motion, for progress. Between 3:48 p. m. and 7:50 p. m., care should be used to hold your poise and do not take on new obligations. After 7:50 p. m. favors meetings and conferences.

October 23 and November 21 (SCORPIO)—Greater gain will be attained by sticking to routine matters today. Remain away from things that are not strictly aboveboard and cannot stand the "light of day."

November 22 and December 21 (SAGITTARIUS)—Before 1:41 noon does not especially favor making changes. Your plans may meet opposition. Between 1:41 noon and 7:15 p. m. favors attending to private matters and business. After 7:15 p. m. favors social contacts and dealings with women.

December 22 and January 19 (CAPRICORN)—The entire day is one of those days that are all-embracing for good. That is, put your best foot forward, seek favors and begin those things which are your greatest desires. The period past 8:10 p. m. favors romantic interests.

January 20 and February 18 (AQUARIUS)—The morning hours and until 3 p. m. do not especially favor dealings with those things that you desire to be stable. After 3 p. m. favors dealings with women and professional people.

February 19 and March 20 (PISCES)—The best aspects of the day operate previous to 12:45 p. m., favoring dealings with the opposite sex, and for out-of-the-ordinary affairs. Aggressiveness should be curbed during the entire day, but those things which require energy and enthusiasm may meet splendid and quick results.

Today's Radio

'Hut Sut Song' Features Local Music Program

Sweet and Swing To Be Played by Ensemble, Evelyn Ambrose.

"Rhythm" swing and sweet will be offered on the musical bill of fare today when the "Shades of Blue" program is heard over WAGA at 12:30 o'clock. This program is a regular week-day feature of that station.

Evelyn Ambrose, charming vocalist, will be featured singing 'In the Hush of the Night" and the popular Swedish novelty number, "Hut Sut Song."

The ensemble will be heard in three numbers. The first, "Charleston Alley," a novelty tune will, feature the piano and two guitars. Billy Galloway will present a special arrangement of "Suwanee River" and the program will close with the orchestra doing a novel rendition of "My Bonnie Lies Over the Ocean."

MISSING HEIRS COURT REUNITES BROTHER, SISTER

Two brothers and a sister, who haven't seen each other since their mother died 39 years ago, and who were located by the Columbia network program, "Court of Missing Heirs," are to be reunited tonight on the "Court's broadcast. The show will be broadcast by WGST at 7 o'clock.

The "Court" hopes also to present a third brother on this program. He has not been located yet, but the program's investigators have some good clues.

The three to appear tonight are Mary Schultze, 49, of 73 Seventh avenue, New York; Henry Schultze Freebes, 47, a fireman, of 14-945 Raleigh street, Ozone Park, Long Island, and James Schultze, 41, an electric company lineman, of 1060 Drucker avenue, Stroudsburg, Pa. The brother not yet located is Charles Schultze, 44, who is being traced through the Seaman's Institute, New York.

The Schultzes were located through the "Court" broadcast of last June 17. They were being sought as coheirs to $1,400 of the estate left by their maternal aunt, Mrs. Nellie Townes, who had died in 1939.

When their mother, Mrs. Mary Fitzgerald Schultze, died in 1902, their father, Charles Schultze, gave each of the four children to a different, private family. They have never seen each other since, although Mary, who has lived in several cities in the east and midwest, told the "Court" she tried many times to contact her brothers. Henry added the name, Freebes, the name of the family that reared him.

VOCAL GROUP PAYS LANNY VISIT TONIGHT

Lanny Ross covers a wide musical area when within a few days he presents the swing vocal group Three Cats and a Canary, and a program of operatic selections.

On tonight's broadcast, the Three Cats and a Canary, will be Ross' guests for the second time. Their first appearance created demand among the Ross fans for a return engagement. They have chosen "Nickel Serenade" and the "Hut Sut Song" as their offerings.

Ross sings three operatic excerpts on his broadcast on Friday, July 18. They are "The Soldiers' Chorus," from "Faust," "La Donna e Mobile," from "Rigoletto," and "Evening Prayer" from "Hansel and Gretel."

Lanny Ross is heard Mondays through Fridays over the Columbia network and WGST at 6:15 o'clock.

COLLEGE HUMOR SALUTES NORTHWESTERN

Northwestern University at Evanston, Ill., will be greeted from the College Humor campus tonight at 9:30 o'clock over the NBC-Red network and WSB. Virginia Verrill, pride of old CH, will be official saluter and her offering will be a tune chosen by Northwestern students as one of their favorites, "Nighty Night." Orchestral presentations by Bob Strong and his band will include "Li'l Liza Jane" and "The Band Played On."

Swing and Wife Talk As Radio Sets Hook-Up

Always a practical man, Raymond Gram Swing cabled for his wife to be at the Mutual studio in New York to talk to him direct before his White Owl broadcast recently. Realizing engineers had to take a balance on his voice from London, Swing decided to accomplish two things at once. Hence, the balance was taken as he chatted with Mrs. Swing.

New Treatment For Bright's Disease Seen

Medical Circles Study Savannah Physician's Remedy.

SAVANNAH, Ga., July 14.—(AP) Medical circles viewed with interest today reports on the work of a Savannah doctor who believes he has developed an effective treatment for Bright's disease.

Renewed interest was focused on experimental treatments with the release recently from the Oglethorpe sanitarium of a sufferer from the disease. The patient, a Newington (Ga.) boy, was reported to have recovered completely from the ailment which takes a high toll of its victims.

The Savannah physician's name was not mentioned in published reports on the work because of the medical code of ethics against such personal publicity.

The doctor first outlined his conception of Bright's disease before members of the Georgia Medical Association at a meeting in Metter in 1930. He said he believed it was not a primary disorder of the kidneys but was rather a complete metabolic breakdown of the entire system.

Heretofore most doctors have viewed the disease as a disturbance of the kidneys that prevented them from performing their function of eliminating certain matters from the bloodstream. The new idea was that the disease was caused by failure of the bloodstream to present the matters to the kidneys for elimination.

The physician worked on the theory that a vitamin deficiency caused tissues of the body to absorb proteins from the bloodstream. Once, working on two cases at the same time, he gave one patient nicotinic acid, the other cevitanic. No noticeable results occurred, then he switched the treatment, giving each patient the acid that the other had received. Both immediately showed improvement and symptoms of the disease eventually disappeared.

Officers of the Savannah Medical Association withheld comment on the new treatment, viewing it as still in the experimental stage.

All Hope Lost For McKown, Father Is Told

Plane Probably Hit Iceberg, Naval Report Indicates.

After conferring with Naval officials in Washington yesterday, R. C. McKown, well-known coal dealer, of 369 Pinetree drive, returned to Atlanta with a Naval report that his son, Ensign Robert Holmes McKown, commander of a naval patrol seaplane reported missing off Newfoundland since July 3, was hopelessly lost.

Naval attaches explained to the father of the lost flyer that in their opinion McKown had struck an iceberg in the fog but did not expect to complete report on the missing ship until the other escorting planes returned from their Iceland mission next week.

Another ensign and five enlisted men were in the plane. McKown was leading a squadron of six planes escorting troop ships to Iceland, the father said.

Mrs. Robert Holmes McKown, wife of the missing pilot, and now on a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kent, 633 Atwood street, S. W., said last night she had received similar information about the fate of her husband.

Georgia Youth May Be First Non-Com Pilot

Initial One Chosen To Be Trained as Enlisted Flyer.

If nothing happens to crop his wings, Uncle Sam's first non-commisisoned air corps pilot will be a 20-year-old Georgia boy who up to now has been a private, punching a typewriter in the Fourth Corps Area headquarters here.

His name is Fred Milton Seymore, and he came from Bowman, Ga. He has been seeking a commission in the Army Air Corps ever since last September, when he left East Carolina Teachers College to enlist. But he lacked the two years of college education necessary for training required before he could be transferred to the Aviation Cadet Corps, whose graduates become commissioned officers.

He kept going to school as a soldier, though, taking a course at the Georgia Evening College which would have completed his college requirements. But he did not get by the trigonometry test, and things looked pretty bleak for his hopes as a flying officer.

Meanwhile, though, congress had passed a law permitting the training of enlisted men as fliers and Seymore was among the first to sign up. Whether his dogged determination to fly had anything to do with it or not, he was the first man chosen in the United States to be trained as an enlisted pilot.

On August 1 he begins the training. If successful, he will come out a staff sergeant pilot, with the chance of working up to the higher grades of technical sergeant pilot and master sergeant pilot.

He's happy he's going to fly. But he still wants that commission. And he's still going to school to get the two years of college he must have before he can wear the golden bar of a second lieutenant.

Later he admitted taking the poison. Although his condition is described as serious, physicians believe he will recover.

Child Is Hero As Bolt Kills His Parents

AUGUSTA, Ga., July 14.—(AP)—Little six-year-old Charles Chavous knew just what to do Sunday when, through tragedy, he became the "Man of the House."

After he saw his father and mother killed by lightning at their home near surburban Belair, he bundled his two-year-old sister in his coat and carried her nearly three miles for help.

Pretty soon his wife, Mrs. Thelma Gray Chavous, and Charles came out on the back porch and in a few minutes the father joined them. Together they stood watching the storm.

"Mama, mama," he cried. She did not answer.

Charles went into the house, got his coat and wrapped it around little Josephine. Then he carried her more than half a mile to the home of his aunt, Mrs. Fannie Powell. No one was home.

By then the rain was falling in torrents. Charles and Josephine crawled into a truck and waited until it stopped.

He again picked up his sister and carried her a mile and a half through the woods to the home of a neighbor, where he told of the tragedy.

Acting Coroner S. Herbert Elliott came, listened to Charles' story, decided it was so clear no inquest would be necessary.

"I've never seen a child who showed so much intelligence," he said, "many adults couldn't do so good."
